

2 Ohio Guardsmen Die In Blazing Xenia Store

COUNTY'S EIGHTH—City and County officials are concerned with the sharp rise in fatalities in Pickaway County. Paul E. Congrove, 51, Route 1, Stoutsville, became the eighth for Pickaway County when he went left of center on Route 56 east of Circleville striking a truck, driven by Richard Charles Koch, 45, 416½ East Main St., head-on. For the same period in 1973 there were three fatalities in Pickaway County.

Accident Claims Stoutsville Man

Paul E. Congrove, 51, Route 1, Stoutsville, became Pickaway County's eighth fatality of 1974 when he was involved in a car-truck accident, 6 p.m. Friday, on State Route 56 east of Circleville.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital, by Pickaway County Coroner, Dr. Ray Carroll, Congrove suffered massive head injuries.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, Congrove was driving east on Route 56, when he went left of center after rounding a curve at Hitler Road.

Striking a truck head-on, driven by

Richard Charles Koch, 45, 416½ E. Main St., the auto came to rest in the ditch.

The highway was wet at the time of the incident.

Friday's fatality has more than doubled 1973's statistics when there were three fatalities by April.

Born Feb. 11, 1923 in Fairfield County, he was the son of Eugene and Erna Loring Congrove.

Survivors include one son, Paul Richard Congrove, Logan Elm Village; one grandson; one aunt, Mrs. Charles E. (Anna) Lackston, Route 1, Stoutsville; one uncle, Lloyd Loring, Lancaster.

The funeral service will be 2 p.m. Monday at the Taylor Funeral Home, Amanda with burial in the Amanda Township Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Nixon Rejects Aid In Paying Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to shoulder the entire burden of about $465,000 in back taxes and interest despite campaigns to help him pay the bill.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Friday the President will pay the tax bill out of his own savings "and by borrowing money." Ziegler accompanied Nixon to Paris for memorial services for French President George Pompidou.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said, "if anybody sends money in the mail to the White House it is returned to them in the form of a check, cash or whatever it is."

Before the White House announcement, Florida Republican Chairman L. E. "Tommy" Thomas said he wanted one million Floridians to mail $1 to the White House "and let the President know that you think he is one in a million."

A group in Whitesburg, Ky., reported it has raised more than $250 for a "Peoples Fund for Nixon's Taxes."

And Chicago multi-millionaire W. Clement Stone, who already has contributed $5.8 million to Nixon presidential campaigns, said he would not hesitate to help Nixon pay his tax debt. The White House turned down the Stone offer.

The White House said it has received more than a dozen telephone offers to help the President. The callers were being discouraged from sending money, the spokesman said.

Nixon on Wednesday agreed to pay about $465,000 in back taxes and interest.

Steinbrenner Fights Indictment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—George M. Steinbrenner III, board chairman of American Ship Building Co. who with his firm was charged Friday with contributing illegally to the campaigns of President Nixon and others, says he's innocent and will fight.

The 43-year-old majority owner of the New York Yankees baseball team was charged in 14 of the indictment's 15 counts, one jointly with the company. The company was charged with conspiracy and making an illegal campaign contribution.

Steinbrenner, described as being as independent as his July 4 birthday, was charged with conspiracy, making illegal contributions to campaign panels for Nixon and influential congressmen, obstruction of justice and obstruction of criminal investigation.

The Nixon committee got $37,200 for the 1972 campaign, the indictment said. It said other illegal contributions went to campaign organizations for Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio

($1,000); the late Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio ($500); and Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Indiana ($1,000), and Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii ($500).

National Democratic congressional dinners drew $6,000 and the Senate-House Majority Dinner $14,000, the indictment said.

The indictment contends that, as head of Amship, Steinbrenner set up a scheme through which Amship employees got fake bonuses to reimburse them for having made contributions from personal funds to candidates he selected.

It charges that he then threatened and intimidated some employees into lying to the FBI and making false statements that their bonuses were proper and unrelated to politics.

And it charges that, after three years of such action beginning in September 1970, he destroyed the records of the bonuses and contributions last April.

"I just am not guilty of any such violations," he said in a prepared

XENIA, Ohio — Two Ohio National Guardsmen died early today when they were apparently trapped in a burning furniture store in tornado-battered Xenia, a Guard spokesman said.

Two other guardsmen were treated for burns and released.

Names of the victims were not immediately released.

The injured guardsmen were taken to a hospital and treated for burns.

Guard spokesman Steve Stone said the men had been standing just inside Cherry's Furniture Store, apparently to keep out of freezing rains that pelted the city overnight.

The men apparently noticed a fire in the building, went inside to investigate and then were trapped by flames and smoke, he said.

The store, situated in the downtown area hit by a tornado late Wednesday, had been serving as a relief station for guardsmen, Stone said.

About 600 guardsmen have been patrolling the streets to guard against looters and with cleanup efforts.

He said the dead men and those injured were members of the 178th Tactical Fighter Unit from Springfield.

Nixon Back On Stump

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — President Nixon will be back on the stump next week after standing aside while Democrats won upset victories in three of four earlier special congressional elections.

Nixon's announcement on Friday that he would visit the 8th Congressional District next Wednesday was greeted with expressions of pleasure from members of both parties — but for entirely different reasons.

"I definitely think it will benefit my candidacy in the sense that it will focus on the main issue — the failings of the Nixon administration," said Democratic hopeful state Rep. J. Robert Traxler.

He has called the election "a referendum on Nixon's policies, programs and leadership."

But state GOP Executive Director Jerry Roe said getting Nixon to come was "a good idea."

"If it's a win, it's all kinds of prestige recaptured," Roe said. He noted if Republican candidate James Sparling Jr. wins, "Nixon is a hero. If he loses, Nixon's to blame. It's all or nothing."

Forged Wilson Letter Studied

LONDON (AP) — Labor lawmakers are pressing Prime Minister Harold Wilson to make a public statement about an alleged forgery of his signature in a letter connected with a controversial land deal.

The legislators think the affair, which is making daily front page headlines here, has been blown up out of all proportion in an attempt to discredit Wilson's Labor government.

The political storm has developed over newspaper reports that a letter on House of Commons stationery with Wilson's forged signature at the bottom was used to promote a land deal that profited Tony Field, Wilson's friend and the brother of the prime minister's long-time personal secretary Mrs. Marcia Williams.

statement released here while he was in New York City to attend the Yankees opener Saturday when they play host to the Cleveland Indians.

He said that "the agony of indictment and trial will weigh heavily" but that "I feel strongly that I must stand and fight for what I believe is right."

Steinbrenner said he could have negotiated a guilty plea to a single felony charge of willful violation of a federal campaign law and thus have avoided indictment and any trial.

Two other executives of the Lorain, Ohio, firm—Secretary Robert E. Bartolme and Treasurer-Comptroller Stanley J. Lepkowski—were named co-conspirators but weren't indicted. Both were granted immunity from prosecution in any self-incriminating testimony when they appeared before the Senate Watergate committee and described the scheme the indictment alleges they, Steinbrenner and others carried out.

Tornado-Hit Areas Bury Dead

By MIKE DUFFY
Associated Press Writer

Tornado-dazed communities from the deep South to the Great Lakes struggled to provide for the needs of the injured and the homeless and began to bury their dead today.

The death toll stood at some 300, with about 4,500 injured. Thousands more were homeless and insured property damage was estimated at about a half-billion dollars in the 14 states and portions of Canada affected by the twisters.

By Friday, volunteers from surrounding communities swarmed into stricken areas like ants climbing over spilled toothpicks. The screech of buzz saws filled the air, bulldozers pushed splintered wood and debris into high mounds of random remnants of the past, and survivors began to sort out the pieces of their futures.

With the needs of the living still so overwhelming, burial of the dead was given little public attention and left to the individual families involved. In Tennessee today, several funerals were scheduled for families with two and three dead in the storms.

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development James T. Lynn headed an air tour of tornado-stricken areas of Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio on Friday and planned to tour Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee today.

All six states have been declared federal disaster areas, and Lynn promised to do all he could to cut the red tape so those affected by the tornadoes Tuesday through Thursday could receive prompt help.

"Each family's loss is a major tragedy and that's the way I want the federal government to respond," he said.

Lynn said preliminary figures show that 1,894 homes in Kentucky are uninhabitable, and about another 1,000 each for Indiana and Ohio.

He said no figure is available on the amount of federal money that will be needed, but "it's going to cost many, many, many, many millions of dol-

Chapin Plans To Fight Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Dwight L. Chapin, convicted of lying to a federal grand jury investigating political espionage, vows "to continue to fight for my innocence."

A federal district court jury of seven men and five women on Friday found the 33-year-old former appointments secretary to President Nixon guilty of two counts of perjury and innocent on a third.

The maximum penalty on each of the two counts is five years in prison and a fine of $10,000. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell sent sentencing for May 15 and invited Chapin to submit "all the information about yourself" before then. He remains free without bond.

"Obviously I am very disappointed," Chapin told newsmen while his wife Susan stood by his side.

"I am going to continue to fight for my innocence. On the day I was indicted I went out on my front lawn and said I was innocent. I intend to fight this thing all the way through."

Chapin, on leave from the position with United Air Lines which he took when he left the White House a little more than a year ago, showed no emotion when the jury announced its verdict. His wife broke into silent sobs when he came over and kissed her.

The jury deliberated nearly 11½ hours Thursday and Friday before reaching its verdict on Chapin, the eighth former White House aide convicted either by guilty plea or trial.

His troubles stemmed from his recruitment of a college friend, Donald H. Segretti, to infiltrate the ranks of Democratic presidential contenders and create confusion and dissension.

In Xenia, Ohio, one of the hardest hit cities, hundreds of homeless flocked to relief shelters Friday.

The southwestern Ohio city of 28,000 suffered 30 dead and an estimated $50 million in damages. Another 25 persons are still unaccounted for in the community, which is outside Dayton.

See Xenia Damage At $55 Million

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Insurance agents estimate they will pay more than $25 million in personal property damage and $30 million for damages to businesses as a result of Wednesday's tornado here.

Already hundreds of local residents have placed claims, many for total losses, of their homes, businesses and vehicles.

"Most people so far have been adequately covered," said James Grushon, an agent for Grange Mutual Casualty Co., Xenia.

"Most of those inadequately covered thought they were saving money, and now realize they weren't," he added. Grushon said insurance for the disaster that occurred is normally covered in a homeowner's policy.

Another local agent, Robert Seiter of Insurance Associates, estimates damage to individual structures and areas of the town. He said the seven schools torn apart by the tornado suffered more than $5.5 million worth of damage. The two-story high school was demolished.

Edward Nixon Takes Stand For Mitchell And Stans

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's youngest brother was the choice of the defense to open its case on behalf of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce secretary Maurice H. Stans, who are charged with criminal conspiracy.

As the seventh week of the Mitchell-Stans trial came to a close Friday, 43-year-old Edward C. Nixon, a younger, slimmer, look-alike to the President, was the first defense witness.

His brother, F. Donald Nixon, 59, had testified for the government earlier in the week that he rebuffed an effort by financier Robert L. Vesco to seek aid from the White House during a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation.

Edward Nixon testified he made a cash-only request to Vesco, who made a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The government charges that in return for the contribution, Mitchell and Stans went to bat for Vesco with the SEC. The indictment alleges conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

The government through its witnesses claimed it was Stans who demanded a cash contribution, to keep the transaction secret. However, the tall, lean Edward Nixon said Stans told

The Arrowhead section of town with 200 homes, where the dark funnel cloud first touched down, was estimated by Seiter with $6 million damage. Downtown Xenia suffered $5 million damage, Seiter said.

"I doubt the industry will know within 10 months how badly hurt they are," said Jim Brenot, an agent from Motorists Insurance Co. of Columbus, who is directing a crew of nine agents taking claims.

Brenot said 125 claims were filed Friday.

"We're giving them $250 today and when that's gone, we'll give them some more until they're settled. We're trying to get them together as a family unit, and to get the kids back into the school system," Brenot said.

Grushon provided double that amount immediately to homeowners who filed claims for destroyed property.

"We're going to give further relief to people as early as Monday," Grushon said.

him "the contribution should be in cash to remain absolutely anonymous, but as far as the committee was concerned it didn't make any difference."

Nixon testified it was Vesco who sought anonymity as a contributor and that following his talk with Stans he called the financier and told him, "If you can do it by cash, do it by cash."

Stans and Mitchell had left the cabinet early in 1972 to head the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Weather Warning Worked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The director of the National Weather Service said that one of the biggest problems the service has when tornadoes are a threat is getting the public to realize the seriousness of the situation.

"Many people like to go outside and look for the tornado instead of taking cover," Dr. George Cressman said Friday.

Cressman, Dr. Robert M. White, director of the National Atmospheric and Oceanographic Administration, and several aides toured the tornado stricken states during the last two days.

White said he believes the warning system worked well during the recent twister episode.

"However, it is possible that after a more extensive investigation is completed that we will uncover some deficiencies existed," White said.

Cressman said that the lead time on the warnings were as long as 45 minutes in some areas and as short as 15 minutes in other areas. He said that 94 per cent of the areas where death occurred had received warnings.

Cressman singled out one area that did not have a radio station which subscribed to the National Weather Service wire and no one in the area knew of the dangerous weather conditions.

Proper Pond Management Involves Weed Control

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Proper management of established ponds usually requires the use of some chemicals. These are especially important in the control of weeds, says Thomas Stockdale, extension specialist in the School of Natural Resources at The Ohio State University.

Use of chemicals will depend largely on the uses made of the pond. Some chemicals cannot be applied in water that will be used for human or livestock consumption, for irrigation, or for spray water. Some chemicals place limits on the use of the pond for swimming for a period of time after application.

The first problem most Ohio pond owners encounter is undesirable plant growth in the pond, says Stockdale. This growth takes many forms and can cause a variety of problems, he adds.

Algae is usually the first "weed" to appear. Called "scum" or "moss" by many people, this is floating masses of green hair-like vegetation. It is a nuisance to fishermen and swimmers, detracts from the appearance of the pond, and can contribute to fish kills and to off-flavors and odors in the water, the specialist explains.

Copper sulfate (c U2S04), called blue vitrole by some people, is the chemical most frequently used to control this problem. A concentration of this chemical must be created in the total volume of water where the problem exists, Stockdale says. This concentration must be 1 part per million. To achieve this, add 2.7 pounds of copper sulfate per acre foot of water. To determine the number of acre feet, multiply the surface area of the pond (in acres) by the average depth of water in feet.

The easiest way to apply copper sulfate is to place the required amount in a burlap bag and drag it in the pond until the copper sulfate dissolves, Stockdale says.

WARNING — Control of heavy infestations of weeds can contribute to a fish kill. To reduce this hazard, treat half of the pond, then wait 7 to 10 days before treating the second half. Also do not apply copper sulfate when fish are spawning.

Other materials are also available for control of filamentous algae, says Stockdale. For these and other aquatic weed control chemicals, check with your local supplier and be sure to read the labels carefully.

Do you "kick the knit habit" because you're afraid to sew with knits? They are really not much different from other fabrics. Special knit supplies will help. Ballpoint straight pins and needles will help in sewing. Some knit courses teach not to use pins at all — only chalk for marking. Be sure your scissors are sharp. Dull ones will pull and stretch the knit edge. If the edges of the seams roll (single knits are bad about this) spray or dab a bit of water and white vinegar solution on these rolled edges. If you have trouble ironing out the "fold" of the fabric, again use the vinegar and water solution on it and then press. Use a small zig-zag stitch for seams that will be "pulled." If you do not have this stitch, gently "stretch" as you sew the seam. Stretch evenly in front and back of the presser foot. I sew all sleeves twice (once on seamline and once just beside it on the seam allowance) and trim to ¼ inch. Most knits do not ravel, but you can overcast the narrow seam allowances together for neatness and a store-bought look. More on knits next week!

Our recent Community Development Report tells us that last May only 30.3 per cent of the state's eligible voters actually voted in the primary. As a representative of three levels of government, we at the Extension Service urge all of you to vote. April 8 is the registration deadline.

When you buy fabric by the yard, you should get three things: the fabric, the receipt for your money, and a care label. The care label gives you instructions for washing, bleaching, ironing, or dry cleaning the material — just like the care labels in the clothes you buy. They are washable labels you sew right into a seam in your garment. If you do not get your label, ask for it. Be sure the label you get matches the information on the label of your bolt of material. Usually the label will say "Care label 1 or 2." If the care label is not available, complain to the store manager. It is rarely the clerk's fault. If the store persists in not providing your care labels (they have to by law now) write to Care Labels, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580, or call hotline 1-202-963-3735.

Talk about saving energy! Few of you, I'm sure, have escaped the labors of lawns in the summer. You might consider plowing up more of it for gardening, if even a flower garden. In the March issue of the Smithsonian, it said 162,000 B.T.U.'s of natural gas are required to produce nitrogen for a 50 pound bag of lawn fertilizer! A 10,000 square foot lawn requires about 5 bags per season. Mowing takes another ½ million B.T.U.'s. In Indianapolis, ¼ of the city trash collection in the summer is grass clippings! We might want to spare some of the lawn fertilizer this year, especially when the farmers supply is low.

How can you replace a lawn? In the southwest, I've seen actual "designs" worked out in various colors and shapes of rocks, gravel and pebbles, bordered with hardy dark green shrubs. No mowing, no fuss, no energy on upkeep. In Los Angeles, I noted that the space limitations prevented the "lawns" we have. Homes were surrounded by cooling, shady English ivy "lawns." Some had lovely moss lawns which looked velvety. Some were blooming moss. In future years we may have to look for some of these creative yard ideas.

WEED CONTROL IN
SOYBEANS IS ESSENTIAL
THIS YEAR

With fertilizer in short supply this year, it means plant population and weed and insect control take on more importance than ever, if you're going to produce the yields you need to make the biggest possible profit.

You can offset the shortage of fertilizer, to some degree, by being sure you get good weed control, because weeds use and tie up fertilizer your soybeans need.

Preforan*, put on at planting time, will keep foxtail and broadleaves, like jimsonweed, smartweed, and wild mustard in check. Gets a lot of other annual grasses and broadleaf weeds, too.

Use Preforan this year, for cleaner soybeans.

Now that most of the 4-H clubs in the county are organized we need to talk about the proper methods for bringing an idea before the group.

If you have an idea to give to the group use parliamentary procedure. Here are eight easy steps to follow:

1. Stand and address the president. Say something like, "Mr. President."
2. The president will recognize you by giving you the floor to speak.
3. State your idea in the form of a motion. "I move we . . ."

Quality Seed Reduces Needs Of Treatment

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Most seed from the 1973 soybean crop will not need a fungicide seed treatment, according to C. Wayne Ellett, Extension Specialist at The Ohio State University. This reverses the situation of a year ago when seed treatment was recommended because of poor quality seed from the 1972 crop.

Weather conditions in the fall of 1973 were favorable for a prompt harvest of the soybean crop in Ohio, Ellett says. This resulted in soybean seed of high quality for 1974 planting. The Phomopsis fungus, responsible for the poor seed quality of the 1972 crop, is absent or at low levels in most of the 1973 crop.

Standard germination tests in the Plant Disease Laboratory at OSU indicate a germination of well above 80 per cent for most of the soybean seed available for 1974 planting. Seed lots of this quality do not need a fungicide seed treatment, explains Ellett. Research indicates no increase in yield from using fungicides on these high germinating seed lots.

Germination percentage of soybean seed intended for planting should be determined, the specialist suggests. If seed with a germination of less than 75 to 80 per cent is to be used, the seed should be treated.

Several fungicides are approved and available for use as dry, slurry, or planter-box application. Ellett suggests contacting local county Extension Service agents for information on such fungicides.

Once treated, the seed cannot be used for food, feed, or oil, he warns, so farmers who have treated their seed cannot use them for purposes other than planting.

Western Europe Ag Output Rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Europe, one of the world's largest markets for U.S. grain and other farm products, is headed for another record level of agricultural production in 1974, says the Agriculture Department.

The department's Economic Research Service said Thursday that gains are expected in both crops and livestock. But as in the United States, fuel and fertilizer shortages cloud prospects, the agency said in a report.

As an outlet for U.S. farm products, Western Europe as a bloc traditionally has been the largest customer. But this fiscal year, ending June 30, sales to Asian countries are tops at $8.5 billion compared with $7.6 billion estimated for Europe.

Total U.S. farm exports this fiscal year are estimated at a record of more than $20 billion, up from $12.9 billion in 1972-73. But those are expected to be down in the year beginning July 1, partly because other countries — such as those in Western Europe — are making strides in boosting their own output.

The report, "Agricultural Situation in Western Europe," made no projection of U.S. farm exports to the region in 1974-75. Department officials have estimated over-all farm exports will drop to between $17 billion and $19 billion next fiscal year.

Although previous USDA reports indicated farm output in Western Europe will be up again this year — crop production set a record in 1973 — the new analysis appeared to be slightly more cautious.

On March 11, for example, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said European wheat production in 1974 was likely to increase more than three per cent from last year.

The latest report did not dispute that forecast but said "unfavorable weather in the spring or summer could significantly reduce" earlier estimates and called attention to potentially lower yields if fertilizer shortages persist.

Last Feb. 17, the Foreign Agricultural Service predicted beef output this year in Western Europe was expected to jump 8 per cent from 1973. That increase, the agency said then, could mean a reduced European requirement for meat imports from such suppliers as Australia.

As a result, the Feb. 17 report said, Australia and other meat exporting countries would look more favorably to the U.S. and Japan as market outlets.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Pansies will probably be the first flower garden bedding plant you'll put out this year (April 1), followed by petunias, marigolds, begonias and other warmer season plants when the soils and air temperatures warm up and remain so. Don't rush plantings, though, because late spring frosts can set you back.

This year when selecting your bedding plants, why not pick those not yet in bloom? Most gardeners look for bedding plants already in bloom and, for that reason, most suppliers try to give them what they want—plants in bloom. This is unfortunate because purchasers would do much better if they bought young plants not in bloom.

Here's why. Plants not in bloom when you purchase them have more active root systems, transplant better and, consequently, "take off" faster. They don't have to be in bloom for you to tell what the flowers will look like. A plastic label is provided in each pack of plants which indicates the variety, height plant will grow, spacing recommendations, and color (picture) of bloom. Smart gardeners will choose young plants, using the labels as guides. These plants do not have to be pinched back, as do those already in bloom. The root system is not over crowded, as it is in older, blooming plants, which must be pinched back to get desired growth and flowering. So, it's to your advantage to buy young plants not in flower for transplanting in your garden.

Bluegrass is a cool season grass and growth is better in early spring and fall. Therefore, seeding is much more successful during these periods of the year.

Early spring planting takes advantage of the peak growing season, which extends through May and into June. Chances are, if new seedlings haven't made good growth during this period, they won't resist week invasion and summer heat.

Although fall is the best time for seeding grass, there are several advantages to spring seeding. Usually, the home gardener has more enthusiasm for physical labor during spring weather, the soil works up well after a winter of alternate freezing and thawing, and less water is required to germinate seed during cool weather and a soaking lasts longer. However, seed will take longer to germinate, because the soil is cold.

'Expanding' Space

North Americans have never really known the confines of a serious population squeeze. New York and some other congested cities have problems, but compared to those of lands which simply cannot accommodate more people, they are minor.

India and China are examples of large land masses which are incapable of providing adequately for their populations, but their problem is not so much one of inadequate space as improper development and utilization of the land. What happens when a population squeeze sets in on a country with very definite boundary limitations has been demonstrated for centuries in Japan.

Few countries in the world, if any, have developed the art of land reclamation and expansion to the advance state practiced in Japan. With a total land mass slightly smaller than the state of California — and only about 15 per cent of it arable — Japan is engaged in one of the most extensive reclamation programs in its history.

Total coastal land reclaimed since World War II by damming harbor mouths and narrowing broad rivers amounts to 75 square miles. It is among the most valuable industrial land in Japan. Inland reclamation projects have produced more than 200 square miles of farmland.

In Japan, literally every square yard of soil is valuable asset. Reclamation can provide some temporary relief, but for the future Japan needs far better provision for its growing population than a few hundred square miles of land retrieved from the sea and mountains.

Finding a long term solution for a shrinking planet, especially in Asia, is rapidly becoming one of the world's most pressing problems.

Where There's A Will

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, — While my wife's back was turned the other day — she was doing the washing for our neighborhood — I stole a page or two of her upcoming book (written with her friend Ruth Pool) about amusing, amazing, and thought-provoking last wills and testaments. It will be titled "Wills — A Dead Giveaway."

Doubleday will publish this summer. The two ladies researched the subject about as far as Albert Einstein looked into the incredible puzzle that energy equals MC square.

A few jewels from the plundered papers:

Einstein, whose theory led to the atomic age, a violent change in world order, potential source of energy on a de-fossilized planet, left $65,000, which included his off-key violin. Joseph K. Lilly, Jr., grandson of the inventor of the Lilly Cup, left $57,802,803. So it just goes to show you.

Ailsa Mellon's estate came to $570,684,725. Only about $7,000,000 went for taxes; the rest, or most of the rest, to the Mellon Foundation. By contrast, Robert Watson Goelet, who was in oil, real estate and the 400, as "Society" was once called, left $19,579,316, a nice "even day" license number if he were still around and in a gas station line. But the Feds took $11,572,348 of it, New York State $2,693,096, Rhode Island $1,269,859, Utah $2,717, Province of Quebec, $6,833, Province of New Brunswick, $7,898, and there were such other bites as administrative expenses, $966,000, and appraisers $250,000. He left the Ritz-Carlton Hotel on Madison Avenue, one of the last great American hotels, to Harvard — free of mortgage.

Harvard sold it! Even its priceless wine cellars and the men's bar. It's now a faceless office building filled with faceless people — not with Enrico Caruso, Diamond Jim Brady, James Montgomery Flagg, and Aron Carter, who bought its fabled bar. I'll never send my rich grandchildren to Harvard again.

FDR did better. He left $1,100,000, with a long proviso about the future care of his secretary Missy LeHand. John F. Kennedy left trust funds amounting to $10,000,000. When John Jacob Astor died in 1848, he was the richest man in America. He left $150,000,000. American billionaires, John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, left much of their estates to foundations bearing their names, so it is not easy to determine what was their "worth" when they passed on. John D.'s "residuary estate" of $25,000,000 was a pale carbon copy of even the $500,000,000 he had given away (at the suggestion of a fearless public relations man named Ivy Lee) before he died. How many dimes make $500,000,000? Henry left either $70,000,000 or $600,000,000, depending on which obit one reads.

Damon Runyon, who didn't leave much except some suspect jewelry which was subsequently stolen from his widow, used to write that "all hoss players die broke." Not true in the case of Charles W. Englehard, who not only bet horses but owned them. He left $250,000,000. Teddy Roosevelt left not half as much as his cousin Franklin, $500,000. Igor Stravinsky left $1,250,000 and an estimated $3,500,000

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Where in the world is everyone going all the time, and why? Never before have people had more reason to ask why they are running about, what with the gasoline shortage and rising fares.

In 1929, Americans spent less than $8 billion on transportation. Now they spend around $100 billion in a year's time. Whereas coming and going accounted for less than 10 per cent of personal expenditures in 1929, it now approaches 14 per cent.

The situation is coming into more critical focus every day. Gasoline is in short supply. Urban mass transportation systems are urgently required. Some railroads are on welfare; some airlines seek that role.

Never has there been a bigger demand for transportation. But probably never either have the economics of transportation been so confused. Demand usually means profits for the sellers, but it isn't always so in transportation.

This week the trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Co. announced they will seek $400 million in federal grants and indicated they might consider selling the line's assets if the money wasn't forthcoming.

On the same day, the nation's two international airlines, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for annual subsidies that could exceed $300 million.

While their reason, the spiraling cost of fuel, was unique, their request wasn't. Back in 1968, the federal government tried to bail out Northeast Airlines, which since has become part of Delta Air Lines.

Regional and local service airlines also receive subsidies so that they will offer service to communities with insufficient traffic to provide a free market incentive.

Where is everyone going? A West Coast executive "commutes" each week to New York or Washington.

"You can't do business with bankers or senators over the telephone," he explains. He doesn't quite come up with an answer when asked if the duties couldn't be delegated to someone in the East.

A group of teachers takes advantage of an income tax deduction and a group fare rate to Paris and Rome, so they can further their education in the great museums. Have they mastered all the museums at home? Embarrassing question.

Everyone has what he considers a logical explanation for going from one place to another. The government encourages it. Advertisers promote it as the modern way to live. Nobody tries to defend staying in place; it isn't the thing to do.

But as the bills grow and the deficits mount, public and private, staying around home could be provided with the most reasonable, logical defense of all.

Taft May Seek Action Against SSI

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said Thursday he would seek legislative action if problems with the new Supplemental Security Income program aren't solved administratively.

Speaking at a meeting called by the Ohio Commission on Aging, Taft said his Washington staff has been working with Social Security officials in an effort to "eliminate bureaucratic delays" in processing benefits.

"I realize that even if the concerned officials do all they can, there may be problems which cannot be solved without federal legislation," Taft said.

"An act of Congress is not easy to bring about, but I am willing to seek it if that seems the only satisfactory answer to the pressing needs of these people," he added.

The meeting was called to discuss reports the new SSI program has delayed benefits to thousands of Ohio's aging, blind and disabled.

The federal government took over the programs from state welfare departments Jan. 1 and eliminated large numbers of persons who previously received welfare support.

Taft said it was his understanding many persons thought to be ineligible for SSI may be included in the program administratively.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last American whalers were beached in 1972 after whaling was banned by the Department of Commerce. The three small ships with their bow-mounted harpoon guns were all that remained of what once had been the largest whaling fleet in the world.

"Hey, Mom, we're all out of orange juice!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Let's think about... The comfortable safety of sitting under a hair dryer with a popular movie magazine in a "beauty parlor" now seems to be threatened.

Dr. Judith M. Taylor, of Scarsdale, N. Y., came to the interesting conclusion that some techniques used in the shampooing of women's hair may be potentially dangerous.

Dr. Taylor made the observation that because the wash basins or sinks used for shampooing in beauty parlors demand that the head be forced backward, unpleasant symptoms can arise.

One case of severe dizziness occurred immediately after the head was placed in this position, Dr. Taylor reports.

Another case involved a loss of speech because the blood supply to the brain was temporarily cut off by this abnormal extension of the head.

Neuralgic pains and neck injuries may well be the end result if the head is forcefully placed in this position, Dr. Taylor states.

Women past middle age may have low-grade arthritic conditions and osteoporosis, (a post-menopausal softening of the bone structures) which may be aggravated by such positional distortions.

Dr. Taylor's observation is an excellent one and may spare salon owners and their clients a great deal of grief if they make sure that the head is kept in a comfortable, normal position.

It is well known that insomnia is one of the added problems that plagues the chronic alcoholic. Sleep disturbances present a major problem to them.

Dr. Boyd K. Lester, a psychiatrist at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, has shown that the sleep problems persist in alcoholics even after they have been "dried out."

This is an important observation because sleepless nights often make the alcoholic return to bouts of drinking.

Dr. Lester, after a great deal of scientific studies on the sleep problems of the alcoholic, believes that with drugs and psychological support the alcoholic can be tranquilized and thus given a better opportunity to return to normal functioning capacity.

Nation's Traffic Toll Cut Sharply; Credit Low Speed

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic deaths decreased sharply in January and February, and the National Safety Council says the main reason is lower speeds.

If the 25 per cent reductions in the first two months continue throughout the year, the number of fatalities on the nation's highways could be 14,000 fewer than in 1973 and the lowest in more than a decade, a council spokesman said Thursday.

Vincent Tofany, council president, said 5,680 persons were killed in highway accidents in January and February, compared with 7,560 persons the first two months of 1973.

The safety council has been reporting lower monthly fatality rates due to the energy crisis since November. But until now it has not attempted to determine the reason for the decrease.

The council said a comparison of the amount of travel on the nation's turnpikes with the number of fatalities on the turnpikes indicates that the dominant reason for the reduced number of deaths is the reduction in speed.

"Your chances of dying in a crash increase dramatically over 50 miles per hour," said the spokesman. "You have four times as great a chance of surviving at 50 than you do at 70."

Statistics from about 50 of the nation's turnpikes based on reports from the turnpike authorities show a 13 per cent drop in turnpike travel in January 1974 but a 67 per cent drop in the number of turnpike deaths.

Similar statistics for November and December — like January months before the maximum 55 mph speed limit went into effect nationwide — indicate much of the speed slowdown is voluntary, Tofany said.

In 1973, council statistics show 55,600 persons died in highway accidents. A

Should Cab Drivers Take Medical Exams?

BELGRADE (AP) — Ljubomir Lazarevic, councilman of this capital of Yugoslavia, recently proposed that each taxi driver of the capital should, before obtaining a license, undergo psychiatric observation.

He argued that taxi drivers perform a public service and that only those mentally stable can perform it. He added that if his proposal is adopted complaints of the public against erratic taxi drivers would be eliminated.

His proposal was not accepted.

reduction of highway deaths by 14,000 this year would place the figure around 43,000. The annual toll has not been that low since 1963, when 43,564 lives were lost on the nation's roads.

A spokesman said, however, that with the easier availability of gasoline supplies, travel by car is expected to increase and, thus, the 25 per cent reduction figure isn't expected to continue.

But despite the encouraging trend in the latest statistics, Tofany said he fears that with the easing of the crisis pressure will be brought on officials to raise the speed limits. He said this should not be allowed to occur "without careful consideration of their possible safety effects."

Suit Against Gilligan Nixed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court has dismissed a suit against one of the state's major contenders for governor and taken under advisement a request by another.

It dismissed Thursday a suit by James D. Nolan of Cleveland, running against incumbent Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan in the May primary.

He sought to disqualify Gilligan's reelection bid on grounds the governor's candidate petitions were circulated with the wrong address.

Gilligan's petitions bore his hometown address of 1875 William Howard Taft Rd., Cincinnati, while Nolan claimed it should have listed the governor's mansion, Columbus.

Nolan received an unfavorable ruling earlier after a hearing before Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. Brown said there is a state law that permits the holders of statewide offices to list their home addresses even though they live in Columbus.

Meanwhile, former Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the Supreme Court Thursday for a writ prohibiting the Ohio Real Estate Commission from holding a hearing to revoke his real estate broker's license.

Rhodes claimed the board has "no legal right" to take jurisdiction over his license, or to conduct a hearing that would be "contrary to law."

The commission notified Rhodes in a letter March 12 that he had 30 days to surrender the license or face a hearing at which it could be reversed, vacated, or modified.

Rhodes received the license four days before leaving office after taking an oral examination for it, he said. His license was among several called into question at a commission meeting in early March.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Stolen 'Laundry' Bag

DEAR ABBY: When our son, John, came home from college for a weekend, he brought his soiled laundry in a new U.S. mail bag. He said a friend had loaned it to him, and I asked him to be sure and return it.

I told John that it was stolen property that I didn't want it in the house, and to please take it to the post office. After several days, the bag was still in the laundry room, so I gave it to our mail carrier.

John was upset. He said he had promised his friend he would return it and I had put him in a very embarrassing spot. My husband agreed with our son and said my first loyalty should have been to John.

We brought this up at dinner, and had varied and interesting responses. What would you have done?

MRS. F.: I would not have given it to the mailman. I would have first provided John with a proper laundry bag and then advised him to return the U.S. mail bag to his "friend"—and on the double.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are retired. Our assets amount to approximately one-half million dollars—not too big an estate for some folks these days, but it's a lot for us.

I think it is time I enjoyed some of the pleasures that money can buy. For instance, I can't remember the last time we went on a vacation trip.

We have always bought our clothing at rummage sales, our furniture at garage sales and Goodwill. We have never had a new car. Always bought them second hand. We live in a tiny house, and have skimped and saved on everything. We weren't ashamed, either. We used to brag about how long we'd had something and how we paid for it.

What's my problem? After having lived this way all my life I told my husband I wanted him to loosen up with the money, but the older he gets the harder he pinches his pennies. After 70, wouldn't you think he'd loosen his grip?

Please, no city or state. Just your answer.

TIRED OF SKIMPING

DEAR ABBY: It will be hard to teach your old horse new tricks, but it's worth a try. Start out by investigating vacation tours. See America first! Select the most expensive, but settle for the least costly. Insist on a clothing allowance—but ask for twice as much as you really want. "Hang in there. Nothing is impossible."

DEAR ABBY: When a friend dies and I pay the family a condolence call, I never know what to say. Should I talk about the one who died? Or should I try to make the family feel better and cheer them up with jokes and humorous stories?

I feel so awkward just sitting there in silence, yet forcing conversation at a time like that seems so artificial. Please tell me how to act.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: How one handles his grief is a personal matter. Let the one who has suffered the loss take the lead. If he feels like talking, encourage him to talk. If he prefers to sit in silence, don't intrude on his silence. Friends should call, bring food, offer to run errands, and do what needs to be done. A hug, a squeeze of the hand, a look which says, "I'm here, if you need me," conveys more than a thousand words.

Spanish Classes Are More Fun This Year

By RUSTY WILLIAMS

The Teays Valley Spanish Classes are making learning fun. They sing, do skits, and have contests.

Mrs. Mary Bendycki, the Spanish teacher, said, "Songs and skits are fun. Not only do they relieve the routine, but the students learn from them."

The students seem to agree with Mrs. Bendycki's theory. Sherry Ward commented, "The people in the class are eager to learn."

Cindy Lowe said, "It gets the kids more interested in it."

The classes do a variety of things such as having contests, in which the classes divide up into teams and race each other in interpreting Spanish to

English and vice-versa; skits, where the students speak in Spanish and learning songs.

At Christmas time all the classes walked through the halls at TV singing Spanish Christmas Carols. Recently, they learned the popular song "Eres tu" as done by Mocedades from Spain.

The third year classes made a pinata at Christmas. A pinata is a paper mache animal full of candy which is hung from the ceiling and hit with a stick until it breaks open. The classes also took a trip to a Mexican restaurant.

The students say they are learning more Spanish than they thought they would and there is more interest in the course for next year.

Play Crew Interviewed

SNOOPY—Dave Warner is shown above as he practices his part as Snoopy in the musical production "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown." The play will be presented at the Teays Valley High School April 19 and 20 at 8 p.m.

By STEVE GREGORY

On March 25 in the cafeteria at Teays Valley High, I had the privilege to interview Miss Debbie Mitchum, who is playing the part of Patty, and Miss Cindy Beattie, who is an understudy in the April 19 and 20 musical production of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown."

Debbie said, "The play in general is very humorous and should be quite entertaining." She feels that in order to give a good performance, she has to work very hard and long.

Cindy said, "The cast works very hard together. This is half the battle for putting on a good performance." She went on to say, "That it is also very important the various crews all work together, along with the cast in order for everything to run smoothly. Everything looks pretty good so far."

Miss Fulton Is New Face In TV Halls

CINDY FULTON
By ROBERTA LALIK

If you've seen a new face roaming the halls lately, it's Cindy Fulton. Miss Fulton is the girl's new gym teacher. She graduated from Muskingum College near New Concord.

When asked why she started teaching physical education, she said, "I like all sports and have always been active in sports. Sports has something to offer for everyone whether they are a spectator or an athlete. It gives them a chance to work as a team."

Miss Fulton remarked, "This is the first time I have been involved with split session. There is a lot of space during the day. But after school you can't use the facilities because the junior high has them."

Her hobbies include coaching the Grandview Majorettes, twirling baton, dogs, and playing a few musical instruments.

Miss Fulton is going to be here the remainder of the school year and hopes she will get to know everyone in the short period of time left in the school year.

7 Schools Devastated At Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP)— More than half the schools in Xenia may have to be replaced because of damage from Wednesday's tornadoes, school superintendent Carl B. Adkins said.

The school system enrolls 8,000 students in 12 schools.

Seven schools were "devastated" including the two-story Xenia High School, Adkins said.

"It would cost at least $5 million to replace the high school," he said. The entire top floor and gaps in the ground floor were blown away by the force of the tornado. A school bus lies on its side against one of the brick walls still standing.

Schools were closed Thursday and Friday immediately after the tornado. Regular spring vacation was scheduled next week.

"We've got all of next week to get the teachers and administrative staff together and wrestle with the problem of what to do about school," Adkins said.

Adkins said he was looking for vacant space at private schools and other buildings to hold classes.

A high pressure ridge west of us is moving toward Ohio, pushing fair weather ahead of it. Temperatures today were to reach the 40s and 50s under generally sunny skies.

By Sunday, a low pressure system along the Canadian border was expected to push across the Great Lakes, spreading clouds back into the state and bringing a chance of showers. Warm air drawn into this system was expected to push afternoon temperatures up into the 50s and 60s.

New Health Policy For State Workers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new health care policy for state employees will not increase costs to workers, Joseph J. Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services said Friday.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield will take over the policy after Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Richmond, Va. canceled its coverage, Sommer said. The cancellation is effective April 30.

Sommer said the state will pay $50,000 more than the $25.15 contract negotiated with Fidelity Bankers.

Grange News

NEBRASKA GRANGE

Nebraska Grange was host to members of Scioto Grange at the regular meeting April 2.

The meeting was conducted by Worthy Master Ray Noecker at which time reports were heard from Eddie Crites, youth chairman, who announced the Pickaway County Youth Banquet at Granville and from Carl Bennett who commented on no fault insurance.

The Grange will serve the Walnut-Madison Alumni Banquet the first Saturday in May at the Walnut School. A contribution was made to the Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children through Easter Seals and also to help with awards for the 4-H Program.

On May 14 Nebraska Grange will be guests of Washington Grange and present the program.

The sewing and baking contests were held at this meeting under the direction of the Women's Activities Committee, Mrs. Ralph Dunkel and Mrs. John Bell. First place winner of the party apron contest was Mrs. Carl Bennett and Mrs. Florence Wharton, second. Thelma Hines placed first in the Carrot cake contest and Mrs. John Bell second.

Mrs. Stewart Beers, lecturer of Scioto Grange, used "Tribute to Farmers" as her program theme.

Members responded to Mrs. Beers' call for those present who are farmers and those who are still living on farms and how many own their farms. A contest, "Let's Search for" was enjoyed. Reading "This is a Farmer" was given by Marjorie Green and the group sang "Dear Old Farm."

Mrs. Josephine Dountz presented a reading, "Oh, Those Nasty Pocket Knives". Special instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. Ernest Bidwell and Kenneth Beach. Mr. Beach also sang a vocal number, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," accompanied by Mrs. Bidwell.

Refreshments were enjoyed in the dining room by 28 members and guests. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scotchorn and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Noecker served the refreshments.

The next meeting will be held May 7 with Mrs. Kenneth Riegel, lecturer, in charge of the program. Serving on the May hospitality committee will be Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Waites, Mr. and Mrs. John Brinker and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beers.

Eckhart Rips Cost Boosts By Utilities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Henry Eckhart, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Friday Ohio utilities "don't hesitate to pass their increased costs on to their residential customers."

"The customers are at the end of the pass-it-on receiving line," said Eckhart, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission. "They have to dig down into their inflation-riddled budget and pay."

Eckhart said in a statement the Ohio Power Co. plans to pay higher prices for low-sulfur coal from western states than it now pays for Appalachia coal from Ohio and West Virginia and tack the added costs on customers' monthly bills.

"This action has a doublebarreled, adverse effect on Ohio," he said. "It will feed inflation by raising electric rates for Ohio customers and at the same time reduce the market for Ohio coal."

Eckhart said Columbia Gas of Ohio, which serves 62 counties, is proposing to increase all its gas rates because of the increased costs of its new synthetic gas being produced at its Green Springs plant.

Since the additional supply of synthetic gas will only benefit industrial users, he said, it would be more equitable to bill those customers for the added costs and leave residential rates unchanged.

County Receives Gasoline Funds

Pickaway County municipalities will receive $12,327 in gasoline taxes distributed in March, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The amount of $4,126 will be divided among the villages of Ashville, Commercial Point, Darbyville, Harrisburg, New Holland, Orient, South Bloomfield, Tarlton and Williamsport.

The remaining sum will be distributed to Circleville treasurer.

The gasoline excise tax receipts can be used only for street and roadway purposes.

City Board Accepts Resignation

In a special meeting of the Circleville Board of Education Friday afternoon, the resignation of Walter Sale was accepted to become effective on his 65th birthday, Nov. 14. Due to the fact that the resignation was submitted and accepted, the board rescinded its previous motion to consider terminating Sale's continuing contract.

The board instructed the clerk to void the notification to Sale concerning the motion passed at the March meeting. Sale will continue under contract until his resignation is effective.

Other business conducted in the special meeting included the employment of Charles W. Ward as a custodian at the junior high school building. Ward is a former custodian in the Teays Valley District and will begin service May 1.

The board will meet again in regular session on April 22.

Community Services Council To Meet

The Pickaway Services Council will meet at noon Tuesday at St. Phillips Parish House.

The program will be concerned with services of Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation with emphasis on Emergency Ambulance Service.

Guest speakers will be Angelo Vivino, Health Planning Representative for Pickaway County and Albert Dyckes, coordinator for Ambulance Service for Mid-Ohio Federation. Representatives from all agencies concerned with the welfare of Pickaway County are invited to attend. Reservations may be phoned to Mrs. Walter Heine 474-3330.

Some Nixon Gift Papers 'Retrieved'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's vice-presidential correspondence with such figures as John F. Kennedy and Nikita S. Khrushchev was retrieved for him months after he claims he gave his papers to the government, congressional investigators say.

Nixon's appraiser told him those letters were the most historically and commercially valuable.

The President and his lawyers have insisted that the gift was made before July 25, 1969, the cut-off date for tax deductions on such contributions. But materials made public by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation show that the appraiser and a government archivist went through the gift papers in late 1969 and 1970 and withdrew the files containing correspondence with the best-known figures.

The files, which still belong to Nixon, are stored in a high-security room at the National Archives.

In a meeting with the congressional committee staff that probed Nixon's income taxes, archivist Mary Walton Livingston said she worked on the file in November and December 1969 with appraiser Ralph G. Newman of Chicago.

Newman said "some letters should be retained by the President and not deleted," Mrs. Livingston recalled. "In particular, he wanted to retain for the President communications from President Kennedy, President Johnson, President Hoover, former Vice President (Hubert H.) Humphrey, J. Edgar Hoover, Chief Justice (Earl) Warren and the Honorable Sam Rayburn."

Mrs. Livingston said she suggested "that correspondence with Martin Luther King also be retained by the President because there were some very interesting letters and memoranda in the file on King."

Newman agreed, she said, but it is not clear from archives records whether the King file was held out. The records show that separate files on the former presidents and other dignitaries, along with more than 100 "country files," were removed from the general correspondence that was given to the government.

The country files include correspondence with Queen Elizabeth II, Sir Winston Churchill, Premier Khrushchev and dozens of other foreign leaders.

On Nov. 7, 1969, before he knew exactly what papers were being given to the archives, Newman wrote the President telling him his pre-presidential papers and memorabilia were worth more than $2 million and recommending that certain files be removed from the general files and stored in a special vault, Newman wrote.

There is no indication whether Nixon answered Newman's letter, but the valuable documents subsequently were removed, and the remainder made up the major portion of the gift for which Nixon claimed a $576,000 tax deduction. That deduction has been disallowed by the Internal Revenue Service.

Merrin Set To Coach South Stars

Mt. Vernon High School coach Keith Merrin has been named to replace Paul Walker of Middletown as Class AAA coach of the south team in the annual North-South Cage Classic to be played at Marion Coliseum June 15.

Merrin, who guided his Yellowjackets to a co-championship in the Ohio Capital Conference, sectional, district and regional titles and a berth in the state tournament, began his varsity coaching career at Logan Elm High School.

Walker, the original choice of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn. as Class AAA coach, will be out of the state when the classic is held. The announcement of Merrin as Walker's replacement was made by Dick Brown, Marion, former Harding High School basketball coach who serves as co-manager of the All-Star game and coaches clinic.

Cards Defeat Pirates, 6-5

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are living proof that if at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

After Lou Brock "singled" into a weird double play with the bases loaded in the 10th inning while trying to get the winning run home, Ted Sizemore singled for real to cap a two-run rally that lifted the Cards to a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night in the National League opener for both clubs.

In the only other NL action, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Houston Astros 5-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the San Diego Padres 8-0.

All 12 teams are on today's schedule—New York at Philadelphia, Atlanta and Hank Aaron at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Chicago at Montreal, Houston at San Francisco and San Diego at Los Angeles.

For 9½ innings, the Pittsburgh-St. Louis affair was relatively stable. Reggie Smith doubled home two runs for the Cards and Bake McBride drove in two more with a single and sacrifice fly. For the Pirates, Richie Hebner knocked across three with a pair of homers off Bob Gibson and then doubled in the 10th and scored on Willie Stargell's single for a 5-4 lead.

But McBride opened the last of the 10th with a bunt hit against Pittsburgh relief ace Dave Giusti and raced to third on Ken Reitz's single. He scored the tying run when pinch hitter Tim McCarver rapped a single just out of the reach of second baseman Rennie Stennett.

Jose Cruz, another pinch hitter, outlegged a bunt down the third base line, loading the bases and setting the stage for the unusual double play.

Ramon Hernandez replaced Giusti and Brock lined a shot to right field where Gene Clines, playing shallow, trapped the ball as the three runners all held up. Clines quickly fired to the plate, forcing pinch runner Jim Dwyer, and catcher Mike Ryan fired to third baseman Hebner, forcing McCarver for the second out. But Cruz, a late arrival at second, then scored on Sizemore's single to left.

"I've never seen a play like that before," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh. "I thought we should have had a triple play."

Giants 5, Astros 1

Garry Maddox cracked a three-run homer and Tom Bradley, who drew the opening-day assignment when Ron Bryant was injured in a swimming pool mishap during spring training, scattered seven hits before Randy Moffitt came in to get the last two outs. Rookie Steve Ontiveros and Dave Kingman slapped run-scoring singles in the fourth inning and Maddox smashed his homer off Dave Roberts in the fifth.

Dodgers 8, Padres 0

Jim Wynn slammed a two-run homer, singled twice and drove in three runs to back the six-hit pitching of Don Sutton. Wynn, playing his first game for Los Angeles after being traded by Houston, singled home a run with an infield hit to touch off a three-run third inning and then homered over the left-center field wall in the sixth with Bill Buckner aboard.

Ryan, Angels Smash Chisox

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Four streakers raced around the ballpark, numerous fights erupted in the stands, they played baseball in 37-degree weather and Nolan Ryan struck out a total of four batters.

When was the last time you saw Ryan do that?

The other stuff has become pretty commonplace these days, but the California Angel ace couldn't explain his low strikeout total after beating the Chicago White Sox 8-2 Friday.

"I was all over the place with my fastball," said the hardthrowing Ryan after working eight arduous innings. The major league's best strikeout pitcher didn't have his strikeout pitch until the fifth inning. He issued an extravagant total of 10 walks and threw a total of 138 pitches.

"I was pitching out of trouble the whole game," said the man who fanned a record 383 batters in 1973. "A couple of key early hits and I'm out of the game."

California Manager Bobby Winkles watched Ryan struggling, but didn't lift a finger.

"I wasn't about to yank Ryan in his early trouble," said Winkles. "You can't hardly take him out, because suddenly you look around and he's got it."

Three other American League

games were played Friday, the second day of the season. The Boston Red Sox stopped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-8, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 3-2 and the Minnesota Twins shaded the Kansas City Royals 6-4 in 11 innings.

While the White Sox and Angels christened the 1974 baseball season at White Sox Park, they had competition from the fans — some of whom would rather fight than watch Ryan pitch.

About a dozen individual battles exploded in the Opening Day crowd of 30,041. And while they were swinging in the stands, others were caught naked on the field.

Lee Stanton doubled, homered and drove in three runs to lead the Angel assault on Chicago ace Wilbur Wood. Red Sox 9, Brewers 8

Darrell Johnson made a successful debut as Boston manager, Carl Yastrzemski hit a two-run homer and Doug Griffin laced a three-run double. Yastrzemski slugged his homer in the seventh off rookie Kevin Kobel following a bad-hop single by Cecil Cooper.

Orioles 3, Tigers 2

Don Baylor, after failing on a squeeze attempt, hit a checked-swing single in the eighth inning to drive in the winning run as Baltimore spoiled Ralph Houk's debut as manager of the Tigers.

Twins 6, Royals 4

Rod Carew singled home the tie-breaking run in the 11th inning and rookie Sergio Ferrer scored from second base on Larry Hise's long fly ball, lifting Minnesota over Kansas City. With one out in the 11th, Jerry Terrell beat out a roller to the left of reliever Lindy McDaniel and Ferrer walked. Terrell scored on Carew's third single of the game and Ferrer centered home when Hise hit a deep fly to center fielder Amos Otis.

Say Aaron Won't Play In Cincinnati

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves manager Eddie Mathews says Hank Aaron won't play in either of the Braves' two remaining games in Cincinnati, the Atlanta Constitution reported today.

The newspaper quoted Mathews in Saturday's editions as saying in an interview Friday night that Aaron had tied Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs out of town.

"He gave the fans here (Cincinnati) a thrill, and now I want him to give one to the fans in Atlanta," Mathews said.

Mathews said he would refuse any order for Aaron to play any more in Cincinnati, even if it came from Braves chairman Bill Bartholomay or General Manager Eddie Robinson.

"I guess you can say this could mean my job. But it's in my lap," he said.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn had ordered Mathews to play Aaron at least two of Atlanta's three games in Cincinnati. Kuhn said Aaron would have to follow the "pattern he set last year" during the series in Cincinnati.

Rochester Wins Playoff Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Larry McKillop's only shot on goal Friday night gave Rochester its second overtime victory in a row and put the Americans at a 2-0 advantage over the New Haven Nighthawks in the American Hockey League's Northern Division semi-final playoffs.

McKillop's goal at 4:27 of the sudden-death overtime broke a 1-1 deadlock in a tight, high shooting match.

In other playoff action, the Cincinnati Swords evened their best-of-seven Southern Division playoffs at 1-1 with a 6-2 decision over the Hershey Bears; the Rhode Island Reds took a 1-0 lead in the Northern Division semifinals, downing the Nova Scotia Voyageurs 6-4, and the Baltimore Clippers went one up in the opener of their Southern Division playoffs with Richmond, defeating the Robins 5-2.

Mahaffey, Jamieson In Golf Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino finally took a bogey, John Mahaffey and Jim Jamieson took a share of the lead, and Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper took off for Augusta, Ga. and Masters, victims of the cut. "It had to happen sometime," Trevino said when his string of 90 holes without a bogey ended in Friday's second round of the $220,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament. "I'm just lucky I didn't shoot 73 or 74."

With Trevino, a run-away winner at New Orleans last week, faltering just a bit, Mahaffey and Jamieson moved into a tie for the lead at nine-under-par 135. Mahaffey had a second round 66, Jamieson 67.

But Palmer and Casper, who have more than 110 tour titles between them, failed to qualify for the last two rounds. It took a score of 141, one under par, to make it. Casper was at 144 and Palmer 146.

Mahaffey and Jamieson, neither a winner this year, but each a runnerup, shared a onestroke advantage over Ray Floyd. Floyd, in a deep slump since winning the PGA national championship in 1969, had a 68 and was alone at 134.

Trevino, who missed the green and bogeyed the first hole—the first bogey he'd made since March 24, had a 69 and was tied with an international group of seven others at 135, just two shots back.

Babe Ruth made 10 hits in 16 trips to the plate in the 1928 World Series. His .625 percentage for that four-game series is a record.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): This would be an excellent day in which to make new friends and to improve your mind; also to travel. A friend may need your help. Give it if you can.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Planetary influences mild, yet you can have a successful day. Taboo wild schemes, daring ventures that lead to mischief. There is a tendency toward recklessness now.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury in excellent position. A pleasant day for mental work, capitalizing on your bright ideas. There's opportunity for better living in the picture.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Put love and devotion above material interests, and you will find greater peace and happiness. In business matters, check the possibility of making sounder investments.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Take nothing for granted now. Investigate all situations carefully and, in general, "expect the unexpected." A good day in which to finish incomplete tasks.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Mercury auspicious. A good period for airing views, engaging in community affairs, scheduling outings, group activities generally; also for intellectual pursuits.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Favorable planetary influences. Pitch right in and accomplish what you must. During leisure hours, meet a new, diverting challenge, consider some new goals.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Restrain yourself, no matter how strong the urge to take direct action becomes. This is a day for planning—not for involvement in complex situations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Collaborate on a program with associates who have allied interests and principles. Some excellent ideas could result from a "meeting of minds."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Fine planetary influences. A good period in which to advance on material fronts; also for family and other personal matters.

Credit Given For Canoeing

SPOKANE (AP) — Whitworth College here is sponsoring a 1,100-mile canoe trip from the ice-locked reaches of Aylmer Lake in the Northwest Territories through churning rapids into the Arctic Ocean where only a handful of people have ever traveled.

The eight-week trip is open to males and females; regular enrollment at Whitworth is not a requisite.

The trip will include fishing for 30-pound lake trout and observing herds of animals (musk ox, caribou, wolves, grizzlies, falcon) at close range. There are also hardships: hordes of insects, howling winds and carrying heavy packs.

The cost per person of $925 includes college credit, food, equipment, air transportation to the jump-off point and from the final destination and two weeks of training beginning the second week in June. Purpose of the trip is to help participants master the skills necessary for wilderness travel and understanding the Arctic.

FBI Grabs Hearst Kidnap Documents At Newspaper

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — FBI agents have seized a recent terrorist communique and other documents in the Patricia Hearst kidnapping from the attorney for a San Francisco underground newspaper.

The raid came Friday as trustees for $4 million offered by the Hearst Corp. said the money is still available to buy free food for the poor if Miss Hearst is released unharmed.

FBI agents served the warrant on Vincent Hallinan, attorney for the biweekly San Francisco Phoenix, for the April 2 communique from the Symbionese Liberation Army, whose members dragged Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

"They just came in with a search warrant and snatched it," said John Bryan, editor of the newspaper. Bryan said he had refused to turn the material over to authorities and gave it to Hallinan for safekeeping.

Bryan said the FBI took SLA communique No. 7, a note to Bryan purportedly from the SLA and a carbon copy of the SLA communique received Wednesday by radio station KSN.

Communique No. 7, accompanied by a dozen roses, a greeting card and half of her driver's license, said the time and place of Miss Hearst's release would be made known within 72 hours.

The driver's license had already been turned over to the FBI by her father, newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst.

But in the SLA message to KSN, Miss Hearst announced she was turning her back on her parents and joining the SLA, raising doubts whether the $4 million offer still stood.

In the note Bryan said he received Thursday along with the copy of the transcript Wednesday communique, he said the kidnapers praised him for refusing to turn over the material to the FBI.

Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case, said the warrant was served, but he refused to discuss what was seized.

He said the evidence has been sent to Washington for examination.

An FBI spokesman said the evidence would be examined for fingerprints, typewriter identification, handwriting samples and postmarks.

Hallinan could not be reached for comment on the seizure of documents.

In another development Friday, Bryan admitted that an "interview" with the SLA which his newspaper had published last month was a phony. He said the long article was fabricated from previous SLA statements and other revolutionary writings.

Cincy Residents Determined To Care For Themselves

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's tornado victims seem determined to care for themselves rather than seek help.

The Red Cross reported about 30 people in their housing shelters in the area although some 2,200 homes in the Hamilton County area were destroyed or badly damaged.

Dean Clark, at the relocation center in Saylor Park, said "we are very concerned about the people who didn't seek any help at all."

George Fenstermacher, city building inspector noted that 375 of Saylor Park's 508 houses were destroyed or damaged but people moved back where they could Friday.

Others stayed with relatives or found housing with or without public help.

He said at least 50 houses, which were labeled unfit for habitation, are being lived in. They are guarding their own homes against looters, officials said, despite the freeze warning Friday night.

Israeli Jets Hit Syrians On Heights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli military command said a Syrian ground force attacked an Israeli position on Mt. Hermon today and was driven back by Israeli aircraft and artillery.

It was the first time Israeli airplanes had been called in since the Syrian front became the scene of daily fighting 26 days ago.

An announcement in Tel Aviv said the force struck about 11:45 a.m. and Israeli "aircraft were brought into action to stop the Syrian column. Artillery fire also was used."

The Syrians withdrew 30 minutes later, a communique said.

Israeli forces have been on a high alert for the past week or more along the embattled Golan Heights front which includes the 30-square mile wedge of land captured from Syria in the October war.

Israel prepared to celebrate Passover at sundown tonight, but its troops were kept on alert and a special siren that was to have signaled the start of the feast was silenced.

The country still remembered that the last Middle East war broke Oct. 6 on the dawn of another major holiday, Yom Kippur. That war cost Israel nearly 3,000 dead and missing, and continuing clashes on the Syrian front have kept most reservists on active duty.

HAIL DAMAGE—Elvis Moreland surveys damage done to his auto's convertible top by billiard ball-size hail that pelted west central Illinois town of Fidelity during heavy thunderstorm. The hail, which litters ground behind Moreland, fell for 15 minutes, denting cars and shattering windows, but causing no injuries.

Catalyst-Equipped Cars Give Better Mileage

DETROIT (AP) — After years of declining fuel economy, the auto is expected to stage a big comeback in the 1975 model year with gasoline mileage improvements very likely exceeding 7 per cent.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency said Friday that preliminary results on some 1975-model test vehicles showed efficiency improvements would be greater than anticipated.

Coupled with increased use of steel-belted, radial-ply tires, which the EPA says can cut fuel use an average 10 per cent, the improvement could be an important factor in dealing with the nation's petroleum problem.

EPA deputy administrator Eric Stork said the latest projection was based on the first tests of 1975 cars equipped with catalytic converters. The converters will be used on most of the new autos to meet tougher pollution standards.

The agency previously said it expected about a 7 per cent average improvement over-all and 11 to 13 per cent for its own models will probably turn out to have been too conservative," Stork said in a telephone interview from his Washington office.

With the catalysts bearing the burden of emissions control in the new cars, auto makers have said they are able to recalibrate the rest of the engine for better gasoline mileage.

Automakers have complained of a total fuel penalty of about 15 per cent over the past five years because of engine and body changes designed to

Judge Cline Hears 11 Cases Last Week

Juvenile Court Judge Guy G. Cline heard cases this past week on five unruly and delinquent youths and took action regarding six neglected children. The court also terminated probation on cases involving seven youths.

School truancy charges had been filed against a 15-year-old Route 2, Williamsport boy, a 15-year-old Circleville boy, a 14-year-old girl and a 16-year-old boy from Route 2, Williamsport. Each of the youths had a sentence to the Ohio Youth Commission suspended and was placed on probation for three years.

Four Ashville children, ages 12, 14, 15 and 16, were found to be neglected by their father and were placed in the permanent care of their mother in Florida.

Released from probation were three Circleville boys, ages 16, 15, and 21, a Columbus boy, 20, a Groveport boy, 17, an Ashville boy, 18, and a Route 1, Williamsport boy, 16.

A suspended sentence to the Ohio Youth Commission and three years probation was the sentence of a Route 3, Mt. Sterling boy convicted of school truancy.

Two Route 1, Orient boys, ages seven and four, were ordered in to the emergency care of the Pickaway County Children's Services after they were found to be neglected.

Attorney James Hill was appointed by Judge Cline as guardian ad litem for two girls accused of being unruly. Hill will represent the girls on the charges of running away which were filed by their parents.

During the month of March the juvenile court filed 84 new cases and terminated 60 cases. Of the finished cases, 23 were delinquency, 14 unruly, two dependent-neglected, 16 traffic and five adult.

One girl was sentenced to the permanent care of the Ohio Youth Commission during the month. Six girls and 14 boys were placed on probation.

At the beginning of March, 68 cases were pending and 92 were pending at the end of the month.

LE Levy Information Clarified

A 5-mill levy will be on the ballot for the Logan Elm School District residents' consideration in the approaching May primary.

The group of Logan Elm School District residents who previously attended a meeting of the Logan Elm School Board has submitted on one occasion a report of discussions with the Board, and is now offering further voter information.

Since the previous report, furnished by the Logan Elm School District, was incorrectly interpreted as to the actual numbers of employees in the various categories, a complete disclosure of the correct numbers, as approved by the Board of Education, is in order.

As previously reported in the calendar year of 1973, approximately $1,700,000 was expended by the Logan Elm School District and of that amount, approximately $1,360,000 was paid out in salaries for the following employees.

There are 105 full time teachers and administrators and 70 non-certified personnel, making a total of 175 employees in this school system. There are 8 part-time personnel employed at the present time, making a complete over-all total of 183 employees in the Logan Elm School District.

The previous reported break-down of these individual salaries is correct according to the Logan Elm School Board.

Land Use Booklet Available

Help has arrived for anyone having the slightest interest in the land underfoot anywhere in the U. S. A., according to Don Archer, Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Whether a person's angle is to stop floods in the basement, fight fires in the forest, raise flowers at the picture-window, or manage the best farm in the county, a new mini-guide tells which button to push.

The timely aid is "Land Use Planning Assistance" just off the presses of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A slim pocket-pamphlet hardly bigger than a packet of seeds, the digest points out 80 different types of "lift for the landowner" that are as near as the nearest USDA office. Couched in cook-book English, the information avoids technical jargon and tells who-to, where-to, and how-to.

Broader community interests are also covered. The 52 postcard-width pages pinpoint such things as sources of conservation education, data from space satellites, land inventories and resource monitoring.

Releasing the aid to the public, USDA Secretary Earl L. Butz commented:

"This publication summarizes briefly: (1) the purposes of each of the principal Department programs which influence land use, and (2) the land use application of that particular program. The Department's nationwide delivery system for making this land use information available includes the several thousand county offices of its various agencies; 3,000 conservation districts; research centers of the State Land Grant Universities; and State Agriculture Departments."

Copies of the new pamphlet are available from local Soil Conservation Service and other USDA offices.

2 Ohio Guardsmen Die In Blazing Xenia Store

XENIA, Ohio — Two Ohio National Guardsmen died early today when they were apparently trapped in a burning furniture store in tornado-battered Xenia, a Guard spokesman said.

Two other guardsmen were treated for burns and released.

Names of the victims were not immediately released.

The injured guardsmen were taken to a hospital and treated for burns.

Guard spokesman Steve Stone said the men had been standing just inside Cherry's Furniture Store, apparently to keep out of freezing rains that pelted the city overnight.

The men apparently noticed a fire in the building, went inside to investigate and then were trapped by flames and smoke, he said.

The store, situated in the downtown area hit by a tornado late Wednesday, had been serving as a relief station for guardsmen, Stone said.

About 600 guardsmen have been patrolling the streets to guard against looters and with cleanup efforts.

He said the dead men and those injured were members of the 178th Tactical Fighter Unit from Springfield.

The blaze, which shot flames six to eight stories high, was controlled by firefighting crews within an hour.

More than 30 persons died when a tornado ripped through the area.

The guardsmen treated for burns and released were identified as Lt.

Carmen Forzono of Fairborn and Staff Sgt. William Wolfe, whose hometown was not immediately known.

Tornado-Hit Areas Bury Dead

By MIKE DUFFY
Associated Press Writer

Tornado-dazed communities from the deep South to the Great Lakes struggled to provide for the needs of the injured and the homeless and began to bury their dead today.

The death toll stood at some 300, with about 4,500 injured. Thousands more were homeless and insured property damage was estimated at about a half-billion dollars in the 14 states and portions of Canada affected by the twisters.

By Friday, volunteers from surrounding communities swarmed into stricken areas like ants climbing over spilled toothpicks. The screech of buzz saws filled the air, bulldozers pushed splintered wood and debris into high mounds of random remnants of the past, and survivors began to sort out the pieces of their futures.

With the needs of the living still so overwhelming, burial of the dead was given little public attention and left to the individual families involved. In Tennessee today, several funerals were scheduled for families with two and three dead in the storms.

Secretary of Housing and Urban Development James T. Lynn headed an air tour of tornado-stricken areas of Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio on Friday and planned to tour Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee today.

All six states have been declared federal disaster areas, and Lynn promised to do all he could to cut the red tape so those affected by the tornadoes Tuesday through Thursday could receive prompt help.

"Each family's loss is a major tragedy and that's the way I want the federal government to respond," he said.

Lynn said preliminary figures show that 1,894 homes in Kentucky are uninhabitable, and about another 1,000 each for Indiana and Ohio.

He said no figure is available on the amount of federal money that will be needed, but "it's going to cost many, many, many, many millions of dol-

Chapin Plans To Fight Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Dwight L. Chapin, convicted of lying to a federal grand jury investigating political espionage, vows "to continue to fight for my innocence."

A federal district court jury of seven men and five women on Friday found the 33-year-old former appointments secretary to President Nixon guilty of two counts of perjury and innocent on a third.

The maximum penalty on each of the two counts is five years in prison and a fine of $10,000. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell set sentencing for May 15 and invited Chapin to submit "all the information about yourself" before then. He remains free without bond.

"Obviously I am very disappointed," Chapin told newsmen while his wife Susan stood by his side.

"I am going to continue to fight for my innocence. On the day I was indicted I went out on my front lawn and said I was innocent. I intend to fight this thing all the way through."

Chapin, on leave from the position with United Air Lines which he took when he left the White House a little more than a year ago, showed no emotion when the jury announced its verdict. His wife broke into silent sobs when he came over and kissed her.

The jury deliberated nearly 11½ hours Thursday and Friday before reaching its verdict on Chapin, the eighth former White House aide convicted either by guilty plea or trial.

His troubles stemmed from his recruitment of a college friend, Donald H. Segretti, to infiltrate the ranks of Democratic presidential contenders and create confusion and dissension.

COUNTY'S EIGHTH—City and County officials are concerned with the sharp rise in fatalities in Pickaway County. Paul E. Congrove, 51, Route 1, Stoutsville, became the eighth for Pickaway County when he went left of center on Route 56 east of Circleville striking a truck, driven by Richard Charles Koch, 45, 416½ East Main St., head-on. For the same period in 1973 there were three fatalities in Pickaway County.

Accident Claims Stoutsville Man

Paul E. Congrove, 51, Route 1, Stoutsville, became Pickaway County's eighth fatality of 1974 when he was involved in a car-truck accident, 6 p.m. Friday, on State Route 56 east of Circleville.

8 Dead In 1974

Pronounced dead on arrival at Berger Hospital, by Pickaway County Coroner, Dr. Ray Carroll, Congrove suffered massive head injuries.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, Congrove was driving east on Route 56, when he went left of center after rounding a curve at Hitler Road.

Striking a truck head-on, driven by

Richard Charles Koch, 45, 416½ E. Main St., the auto came to rest in the ditch.

The highway was wet at the time of the incident.

Friday's fatality has more than doubled 1973's statistics when there were three fatalities by April.

Born Feb. 11, 1923 in Fairfield County, he was the son of Eugene and Erma Loring Congrove.

Survivors include one son, Paul Richard Congrove, Logan Elm Village; one grandson; one aunt, Mrs. Charles E. (Anna) Lackston, Route 1, Stoutsville; one uncle, Lloyd Loring, Lancaster.

Nixon Rejects Aid In Paying Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to shoulder the entire burden of about $465,000 in back taxes and interest despite campaigns to help him pay the bill.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Friday the President will pay the tax bill out of his own savings "and by borrowing money." Ziegler accompanied Nixon to Paris for memorial services for French President George Pompidou.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said, "if anybody sends money in the mail to the White House it is returned to them in the form of a check, cash or whatever it is."

Before the White House announcement, Florida Republican Chairman L. E. "Tommy" Thomas said he wanted one million Floridians to mail $1 to the White House "and let the President know that you think he is one in a million."

A group in Whitesburg, Ky., reported it has raised more than $250 for a "Peoples Fund for Nixon's Taxes."

And Chicago multi-millionaire W. Clement Stone, who already has contributed $5.8 million to Nixon presidential campaigns, said he would not hesitate to help Nixon pay his tax debt. The White House turned down the Stone offer.

The White House said it has received more than a dozen telephone offers to help the President. The callers were being discouraged from sending money, the spokesman said.

Nixon on Wednesday agreed to pay about $465,000 in back taxes and interest.

Steinbrenner Fights Indictment

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—George M. Steinbrenner III, board chairman of American Ship Building Co. who with his firm was charged Friday with contributing illegally to the campaigns of President Nixon and others, says he's innocent and will fight.

The 43-year-old majority owner of the New York Yankees baseball team was charged in 14 of the indictment's 15 counts, one jointly with the company. The company was charged with conspiracy and making an illegal campaign contribution.

Steinbrenner, described as being as independent as his July 4 birthday, was charged with conspiracy, making illegal contributions to campaign panels for Nixon and infuential congressmen, obstruction of justice and obstruction of criminal investigation.

The Nixon committee got $37,200 for the 1972 campaign, the indictment said. It said other illegal contributions went to campaign organizations for Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio

($1,000); the late Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio ($500); and Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Indiana ($1,000), and Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii ($500).

National Democratic congressional dinners drew $6,000 and the Senate-House Majority Dinner $14,000, the indictment said.

The indictment contends that, as head of Amship, Steinbrenner set up a scheme through which Amship employees got fake bonuses to reimburse them for having made contributions from personal funds to candidates he selected.

It charges that he then threatened and intimidated some employees into lying to the FBI and making false statements that their bonuses were proper and unrelated to politics.

And it charges that, after three years of such action beginning in September 1970, he destroyed the records of the bonuses and contributions last April.

"I just am not guilty of any such violations," he said in a prepared statement released here while he was in New York City to attend the Yankees opener Saturday when they play host to the Cleveland Indians.

He said that "the agony of indictment and trial will weigh heavily" but that "I feel strongly that I must stand and fight for what I believe is right."

Steinbrenner said he could have negotiated a guilty plea to a single felony charge of willful violation of a federal campaign law and thus have avoided indictment and any trial.

Two other executives of the Lorain, Ohio, firm—Secretary Robert E. Bartolme and Treasurer-Comptroller Stanley J. Lepkowski—were named coconspirators but weren't indicted. Both were granted immunity from prosecution in any self-incriminating testimony when they appeared before the Senate Watergate committee and described the scheme the indictment alleges they, Steinbrenner and others carried out.

lars." He said President Nixon told him that "whatever it takes we will spend."

A state-by-state breakdown of the 302 deaths, from official lists: Alabama 72, Kentucky 71, Tennessee 46, Ohio 37, Indiana 40, Georgia 16, North Carolina 5, Michigan 3, Illinois 2, Virginia 1, West Virginia 1 and Ontario, Canada 8.

In Xenia, Ohio, one of the hardest hit cities, hundreds of homeless flocked to relief shelters Friday.

The southwestern Ohio city of 28,000 suffered 30 dead and an estimated $50-million in damages. Another 25 persons are still unaccounted for in the community, which is outside Dayton.

See Xenia Damage At $55 Million

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Insurance agents estimate they will pay more than $25 million in personal property damage and $30 million for damages to businesses as a result of Wednesday's tornado here.

Already hundreds of local residents have placed claims, many for total losses, of their homes, businesses and vehicles.

"Most people so far have been adequately covered," said James Grushon, an agent for Grange Mutual Casualty Co., Xenia.

"Most of those inadequately covered thought they were saving money, and now realize they weren't," he added. Grushon said insurance for the disaster that occurred is normally covered in a homeowner's policy.

Another local agent, Robert Seiter of Insurance Associates, estimates damage to individual structures and areas of the town. He said the seven schools torn apart by the tornado suffered more than $5.5 million worth of damage. The two-story high school was demolished.

Edward Nixon Takes Stand For Mitchell And Stans

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's youngest brother was the choice of the defense to open its case on behalf of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce secretary Maurice H. Stans, who are charged with criminal conspiracy.

As the seventh week of the Mitchell-Stans trial came to a close Friday, 43-year-old Edward C. Nixon, a younger, slimmer, look-alike to the President, was the first defense witness.

His brother, F. Donald Nixon, 59, had testified for the government earlier in the week that he rebuffed an effort by financier Robert L. Vesco to seek aid from the White House during a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation.

Edward Nixon testified he made a cash-only request to Vesco, who made a secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The government charges that in return for the contribution, Mitchell and Stans went to bat for Vesco with the SEC. The indictment alleges conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

The government through its witnesses claimed it was Stans who demanded a cash contribution, to keep the transaction secret. However, the tall, lean Edward Nixon said Stans told

The Arrowhead section of town with 200 homes, where the dark funnel cloud first touched down, was estimated by Seiter with $6 million damage. Downtown Xenia suffered $5 million damage, Seiter said.

"I doubt the industry will know within 10 months how badly hurt they are," said Jim Brenot, an agent from Motorists Insurance Co. of Columbus, who is directing a crew of nine agents taking claims.

Brenot said 125 claims were filed Friday.

"We're giving them $250 today and when that's gone, we'll give them some more until they're settled. We're trying to get them together as a family unit, and to get the kids back into the school system," Brenot said.

Grushon provided double that amount immediately to homeowners who filed claims for destroyed property.

"We're going to give further relief to people as early as Monday," Grushon said.

him "the contribution should be in cash to remain absolutely anonymous, but as far as the committee was concerned it didn't make any difference."

Nixon testified it was Vesco who sought anonymity as a contributor and that following his talk with Stans he called the financier and told him, "If you can do it by cash, do it by cash."

Stans and Mitchell had left the cabinet early in 1972 to head the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Weather Warning Worked

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The director of the National Weather Service said that one of the biggest problems the service has when tornadoes are a threat is getting the public to realize the seriousness of the situation.

"Many people like to go outside and look for the tornado instead of taking cover," Dr. George Cressman said Friday.

Cressman, Dr. Robert M. White, director of the National Atmospheric and Oceanographic Administration, and several aides toured the tornado stricken states during the last two days.

White said he believes the warning system worked well during the recent twister episode.

"However, it is possible that after a more extensive investigation is completed that we will uncover some deficiencies existed," White said.

Cressman said that the lead time on the warnings were as long as 45 minutes in some areas and as short as 15 minutes in other areas. He said that 94 per cent of the areas where death occurred had received warnings.

Cressman singled out one area that did not have a radio station which subscribed to the National Weather Service wire and no one in the area knew of the dangerous weather conditions.

Proper Pond Management Involves Weed Control

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Proper management of established ponds usually requires the use of some chemicals. These are especially important in the control of weeds, says Thomas Stockdale, extension specialist in the School of Natural Resources at The Ohio State University.

Use of chemicals will depend largely on the uses made of the pond. Some chemicals cannot be applied in water that will be used for human or livestock consumption, for irrigation, or for spray water. Some chemicals place limits on the use of the pond for swimming for a period of time after application.

The first problem most Ohio pond owners encounter is undesirable plant growth in the pond, says Stockdale. This growth takes many forms and can cause a variety of problems, he adds.

Algae is usually the first "weed" to appear. Called "scum" or "moss" by many people, this is floating masses of green hair-like vegetation. It is a nuisance to fishermen and swimmers, detracts from the appearance of the pond, and can contribute to fish kills and to off-flavors and odors in the water, the specialist explains.

Copper sulfate (c U2So4), called blue vitrole by some people, is the chemical most frequently used to control this problem. A concentration of this chemical must be created in the total volume of water where the problem exists, Stockdale says. This concentration must be 1 part per million. To achieve this, add 2.7 pounds of copper sulfate per acre foot of water. To determine the number of acre feet, multiply the surface area of the pond (in acres) by the average depth of water in feet.

The easiest way to apply copper sulfate is to place the required amount in a burlap bag and drag it in the pond until the copper sulfate dissolves, Stockdale says.

WARNING — Control of heavy infestations of weeds can contribute to a fish kill. To reduce this hazard, treat half of the pond, then wait 7 to 10 days before treating the second half. Also do not apply copper sulfate when fish are spawning.

Other materials are also available for control of filamentous algae, says Stockdale. For these and other aquatic weed control chemicals, check with your local supplier and be sure to read the labels carefully.

Do you "kick the knit habit" because you're afraid to sew with knits? They are really not much different from other fabrics. Special knit supplies will help. Ballpoint straight pins and needles will help in sewing. Some knit courses teach not to use pins at all — only chalk for marking. Be sure your scissors are sharp. Dull ones will pull and stretch the knit edge. If the edges of the seams roll (single knits are bad about this) spray or dab a bit of water and white vinegar solution on these rolled edges. If you have trouble ironing out the "fold" of the fabric, again use the vinegar and water solution on it and then press. Use a small zig-zag stitch for seams that will be "pulled." If you do not have this stitch, gently "stretch" as you sew the seam. Stretch evenly in front and back of the presser foot. I sew all sleeves twice (once on seamline and once just beside it on the seam allowance) and trim to ¼ inch. Most knits do not ravel, but you can overcast the narrow seam allowances together for neatness and a store-bought look. More on knits next week!

Our recent Community Development Report tells us that last May only 30.3 per cent of the state's eligible voters actually voted in the primary. As a representative of three levels of government, we at the Extension Service urge all of you to vote. April 8 is the registration deadline.

When you buy fabric by the yard, you should get three things: the fabric, the receipt for your money, and a care label. The care label gives you instructions for washing, bleaching, ironing, or dry cleaning the material — just like the care labels in the clothes you buy. They are washable labels you sew right into a seam in your garment. If you do not get your label, ask for it. Be sure the label you get matches the information on the label of your bolt of material. Usually the label will say "Care label 1 or 2." If the care label is not available, complain to the store manager. It is rarely the clerk's fault. If the store persists in not providing your care labels (they have to by law now) write to Care Labels, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580, or call hotline 1-202-963-3735.

Talk about saving energy! Few of you, I'm sure, have escaped the labors of lawns in the summer. You might consider plowing up more of it for gardening, if even a flower garden. In the March issue of the Smithsonian, it said 162,000 B.T.U.'s of natural gas are required to produce nitrogen for a 50 pound bag of lawn fertilizer! A 10,000

WEED CONTROL IN SOYBEANS IS ESSENTIAL THIS YEAR

With fertilizer in short supply this year, it means plant population and weed and insect control take on more importance than ever, if you're going to produce the yields you need to make the biggest possible profit.

You can offset the shortage of fertilizer, to some degree, by being sure you get good weed control, because weeds use and tie up fertilizer your soybeans need.

Preforan™, put on at planting time, will keep foxtail and broadleaves, like jimsonweed, smartweed, and wild mustard in check. Gets a lot of other annual grasses and broadleaf weeds, too.

Use Preforan this year, for cleaner soybeans.

Western Europe Ag Output Rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Europe, one of the world's largest markets for U.S. grain and other farm products, is headed for another record level of agricultural production in 1974, says the Agriculture Department.

The department's Economic Research Service said Thursday that gains are expected in both crops and livestock. But as in the United States, fuel and fertilizer shortages cloud prospects, the agency said in a report.

As an outlet for U.S. farm products, Western Europe as a bloc traditionally has been the largest customer. But this fiscal year, ending June 30, sales to Asian countries are tops at $8.5 billion compared with $7.6 billion estimated for Europe.

Total U.S. farm exports this fiscal year are estimated at a record of more than $20 billion, up from $12.9 billion in 1972-73. But those are expected to be down in the year beginning July 1, partly because other countries — such as those in Western Europe — are making strides in boosting their own output.

The report, "Agricultural Situation in Western Europe," made no projection of U.S. farm exports to the region in 1974-75. Department officials have estimated over-all farm exports will drop to between $17 billion and $19 billion next fiscal year.

Although previous USDA reports indicated farm output in Western Europe will be up again this year — crop production set a record in 1973 — the new analysis appeared to be slightly more cautious.

On March 11, for example, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said European wheat production in 1974 was likely to increase more than three per cent from last year.

The latest report did not dispute that forecast but said "unfavorable weather in the spring or summer could significantly reduce" earlier estimates and called attention to potentially lower yields if fertilizer shortages persist.

Last Feb. 17, the Foreign Agricultural Service predicted beef output this year in Western Europe was expected to jump 8 per cent from 1973. That increase, the agency said then, could mean a reduced European requirement for meat imports from such suppliers as Australia.

As a result, the Feb. 17 report said, Australia and other meat exporting countries would look more favorably to the U.S. and Japan as market outlets.

And So It Grows

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Pansies will probably be the first flower garden bedding plant you'll put out this year (April 1), followed by petunias, marigolds, begonias and other warmer season plants when the soils and air temperatures warm up and remain so. Don't rush plantings, though, because late spring frosts can set you back.

This year when selecting your bedding plants, why not pick those not yet in bloom? Most gardeners look for bedding plants already in bloom and, for that reason, most suppliers try to give them what they want—plants in bloom. This is unfortunate because purchasers would do much better if they bought young plants not in bloom.

Here's why. Plants not in bloom when you purchase them have more active root systems, transplant better and, consequently, "take off" faster. They don't have to be in bloom for you to tell what the flowers will look like. A plastic label is provided in each pack of plants which indicates the variety, height plant will grow, spacing recommendations, and color (picture) of bloom. Smart gardeners will choose young plants, using the labels as guides. These plants do not have to be pinched back, as do those already in bloom. The root system is not over crowded, as it is in older, blooming plants, which must be pinched back to get desired growth and flowering. So, it's to your advantage to buy young plants not in flower for transplanting in your garden.

Bluegrass is a cool season grass and growth is better in early spring and fall. Therefore, seeding is much more successful during these periods of the year.

Early spring planting takes advantage of the peak growing season, which extends through May and into June. Chances are, if new seedlings haven't made good growth during this period, they won't resist weed invasion and summer heat.

Although fall is the best time for seeding grass, there are several advantages to spring seeding. Usually, the home gardener has more enthusiasm for physical labor during spring weather, the soil works up well after a winter of alternate freezing and thawing, and less water is required to germinate seed during cool weather and a soaking lasts longer. However, seed will take longer to germinate, because the soil is cold.

Quality Seed Reduces Needs Of Treatment

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Most seed from the 1973 soybean crop will not need a fungicide seed treatment, according to C. Wayne Ellett, Extension Specialist at The Ohio State University. This reverses the situation of a year ago when seed treatment was recommended because of poor quality seed from the 1972 crop.

Weather conditions in the fall of 1973 were favorable for a prompt harvest of the soybean crop in Ohio, Ellett says. This resulted in soybean seed of high quality for 1974 planting. The Phomopsis fungus, responsible for the poor seed quality of the 1972 crop, is absent or at low levels in most of the 1973 crop.

Standard germination tests in the Plant Disease Laboratory at OSU indicate a germination of well above 80 per cent for most of the soybean seed available for 1974 planting. Seed lots of this quality do not need a fungicide seed treatment, explains Ellett. Research indicates no increase in yield from using fungicides on these high germinating seed lots.

Germination percentage of soybean seed intended for planting should be determined, the specialist suggests. If seed with a germination of less than 75 to 80 per cent is to be used, the seed should be treated.

Several fungicides are approved and available for use as dry, slurry, or planter-box application. Ellett suggests contacting local county Extension Service agents for information on such fungicides.

Once treated, the seed cannot be used for food, feed, or oil, he warns, so farmers who have treated their seed cannot use them for purposes other than planting.

4-H...People Helping People

By STEVE BARTELS
County Extension Agent,
4-H

Now that most of the 4-H clubs in the county are organized we need to talk about the proper methods for bringing an idea before the group.

If you have an idea to give to the group use parliamentary procedure. Here are eight easy steps to follow:

1. Stand and address the president. Say something like, "Mr. President."
2. The president will recognize you by giving you the floor to speak.
3. State your idea in the form of a motion. "I move we . . ."
4. Another member if he likes the idea will second the motion.

5. The president will then restate the motion to the group.

6. The group will then discuss the pros and cons of your idea.

7. The president will ask for a vote on your motion.

8. The president then states the results of the motion — whether it passes or fails.

If you follow these guides it will help you get through the business meeting more rapidly and enjoyably.

A Page Of Opinion

'Expanding' Space

North Americans have never really known the confines of a serious population squeeze. New York and some other congested cities have problems, but compared to those of lands which simply cannot accommodate more people, they are minor.

India and China are examples of large land masses which are incapable of providing adequately for their populations, but their problem is not so much one of inadequate space as improper development and utilization of the land. What happens when a population squeeze sets in on a country with very definite boundary limitations has been demonstrated for centuries in Japan.

Few countries in the world, if any, have developed the art of land reclamation and expansion to the advance state practiced in Japan. With a total land mass slightly smaller than the state of California — and only about 15 per cent of it arable — Japan is engaged in one of the most extensive reclamation programs in its history.

Total coastal land reclaimed since World War II by damming harbor mouths and narrowing broad rivers amounts to 75 square miles. It is among the most valuable industrial land in Japan. Inland reclamation projects have produced more than 200 square miles of farmland.

In Japan, literally every square yard of soil is valuable asset. Reclamation can provide some temporary relief, but for the future Japan needs far better provision for its growing population than a few hundred square miles of land retrieved from the sea and mountains.

Finding a long term solution for a shrinking planet, especially in Asia, is rapidly becoming one of the world's most pressing problems.

In 1777, Marquis de Lafayette's French volunteers arrived in America to assist in the revolution against Britain.

In 1830, the first Mormon Church was organized by Joseph Smith at Fayette, N.Y.

In 1909, the American explorer, Robert Peary, reached the North Pole.

In 1972, Egypt broke off ties with Jordan because of King Hussein's proposal for a new Palestinian state.

Ten years ago: United Nations officers arranged a ceasefire between warring Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities in Western Cyprus.

Five years ago: A freighter registered in Taiwan and a string of oil barges collided in a fiery explosion on the Mississippi River at New Orleans. Twenty-five crewmen of the freighter were killed.

Today's birthdays: Former West German Chancellor Kurt G. Kiesinger is 69 years old. Broadcaster Lowell Thomas is 82.

Thought for today: There's only one success — to be able to spend your life in your own way. Christopher Morley, American writer, 1890-1957.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Let's think about...

The comfortable safety of sitting under a hair dryer with a popular movie magazine in a "beauty parlor" now seems to be threatened.

Dr. Judith M. Taylor, of Scarsdale, N. Y., came to the interesting conclusion that some techniques used in the shampooing of women's hair may be potentially dangerous.

Dr. Taylor made the observation that because the wash basins or sinks used for shampooing in beauty parlors demand that the head be forced backward, unpleasant symptoms can arise.

One case of severe dizziness occurred immediately after the head was placed in this position, Dr. Taylor reports.

Another case involved a loss of speech because the blood supply to the brain was temporarily cut off by this abnormal extension of the head.

Neuralgic pains and neck injuries may well be the end result if the head is forcefully placed in this position, Dr. Taylor states.

Women past middle age may have low-grade arthritic conditions and osteoporosis, (a post-menopausal softening of the bone structures) which may be aggravated by such positional distortions.

Dr. Taylor's observation is an excellent one and may spare salon owners and their clients a great deal of grief if they make sure that the head is kept in a comfortable, normal position.

It is well known that insomnia is one of the added problems that plagues the chronic alcoholic. Sleep disturbances present a major problem to them.

Dr. Boyd K. Lester, a psychiatrist at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, has shown that the sleep problems persist in alcoholics even after they have been "dried out."

This is an important observation because sleepless nights often make the alcoholic return to bouts of drinking.

Dr. Lester, after a great deal of scientific studies on the sleep problems of the alcoholic, believes that with drugs and psychological support the alcoholic can be tranquilized and thus given a better opportunity to return to normal functioning capacity.

Where There's A Will

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, — While my wife's back was turned the other day — she was doing the washing for our neighborhood — I stole a page or two of her upcoming book (written with her friend Ruth Pool) about amusing, amazing, and thought-provoking last wills and testaments. It will be titled "Wills — A Dead Giveaway." Doubleday will publish this summer.

The two ladies researched the subject about as far as Albert Einstein looked into the incredible puzzle that energy equals MC square.

A few jewels from the plundered papers:

Einstein, whose theory led to the atomic age, a violent change in world order, potential source of energy on a de-fossilized planet, left $65,000, which included his off-key violin. Joseph K. Lilly, Jr., grandson of the inventor of the Lilly Cup, left $57,802,803. So it just goes to show you.

Ailsa Mellon's estate came to $570,684,725. Only about $7,000,000 went for taxes; the rest, or most of the rest, to the Mellon Foundation. By contrast, Robert Watson Goelet, who was in oil, real estate and the 400, as "Society" was once called, left $19,579,316, a nice "even day" license number if he were still around and in a gas station line. But the Feds took $11,572,348 of it, New York State $2,693,096, Rhode Island $1,269,859, Utah $2,717, Province of Quebec, $6,833, Province of New Brunswick, $7,898, and there were such other bites as administrative expenses, $966,000, and appraisers $250,000. He left the Ritz-Carlton Hotel on Madison Avenue, one of the last great American hotels, to Harvard — free of mortgage.

Harvard sold it! Even its priceless wine cellars and the men's bar. It's now a faceless office building filled with faceless people — not with Enrico Caruso, Diamond Jim Brady, James Montgomery Flagg, and Amos Carter, who bought its fabled bar. I'll never send my rich grandchildren to Harvard again.

FDR did better. He left $1,100,000, with a long proviso about the future care of his secretary Missy LeHand. John F. Kennedy left trust funds amounting to $10,000,000. When John Jacob Astor died in 1848, he was the richest man in America. He left $150,000,000. American billionaires, John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, left much of their estates to foundations bearing their names, so it is not easy to determine what was their "worth" when they passed on. John D.'s "residuary estate" of $25,000,000 was a pale carbon copy of even the $500,000,000 he had given away (at the suggestion of a fearless public relations man named Ivy Lee) before he died. How many dimes make $500,000,000? Henry left either $70,000,000 or $600,000,000, depending on which obit one reads.

Damon Runyon, who didn't leave much except some suspect jewelry which was subsequently stolen from his widow, used to write that "all hoss players die broke." Not true in the case of Charles W. Englehard, who not only bet horses but owned them. He left $250,000,000. Teddy Roosevelt left not half as much as his cousin Franklin, $500,000. Igor Stravinsky left $1,250,000 and an estimated $3,500,000

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Where in the world is everyone going all the time, and why? Never before have people had more reason to ask why they are running about, what with the gasoline shortage and rising fares.

In 1929, Americans spent less than $8 billion on transportation. Now they spend around $100 billion in a year's time. Whereas coming and going accounted for less than 10 per cent of personal expenditures in 1929, it now approaches 14 per cent.

The situation is coming into more critical focus every day. Gasoline is in short supply. Urban mass transportation systems are urgently required. Some railroads are on welfare; some airlines seek that role.

Never has there been a bigger demand for transportation. But probably never either have the economics of transportation been so confused. Demand usually means profits for the sellers, but it isn't always so in transportation.

This week the trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Co. announced they will seek $400 million in federal grants and indicated they might consider selling the line's assets if the money wasn't forthcoming.

On the same day, the nation's two international airlines, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for annual subsidies that could exceed $300 million.

While their reason, the spiraling cost of fuel, was unique, their request wasn't. Back in 1968, the federal government tried to bail out Northeast Airlines, which since has become part of Delta Air Lines.

Regional and local service airlines also receive subsidies so that they will offer service to communities with insufficient traffic to provide a free market incentive.

Where is everyone going? A West Coast executive "commutes" each week to New York or Washington.

"You can't do business with bankers or senators over the telephone," he explains. He doesn't quite come up with an answer when asked if the duties couldn't be delegated to someone in the East.

A group of teachers takes advantage of an income tax deduction and a group fare rate to Paris and Rome, so they can further their education in the great museums. Have they mastered all the museums at home? Embarrassing question.

Everyone has what he considers a logical explanation for going from one place to another. The government encourages it. Advertisers promote it as the modern way to live. Nobody tries to defend staying in place; it isn't the thing to do.

But as the bills grow and the deficits mount, public and private, staying around home could be provided with the most reasonable, logical defense of all.

Brewery Prepares Water For Xenia

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Anheuser-Busch Inc. announced today preparation of 24,000 twelve-ounce cans of water for tornado-stricken Xenia.

The water was packaged in plain cans at the firm's Columbus brewery, a spokesman said, and shipped to the Greene County city by Anheuser-Busch's Xenia distributor.

Taft May Seek Action Against SSI

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, said Thursday he would seek legislative action if problems with the new Supplemental Security Income program aren't solved administratively.

Speaking at a meeting called by the Ohio Commission on Aging, Taft said his Washington staff has been working with Social Security officials in an effort to "eliminate bureaucratic delays" in processing benefits.

"I realize that even if the concerned officials do all they can, there may be problems which cannot be solved without federal legislation," Taft said.

"An act of Congress is not easy to bring about, but I am willing to seek it if that seems the only satisfactory answer to the pressing needs of these people," he added.

The meeting was called to discuss reports the new SSI program has delayed benefits to thousands of Ohio's aging, blind and disabled.

The federal government took over the programs from state welfare departments Jan. 1 and eliminated large numbers of persons who previously received welfare support.

Taft said it was his understanding many persons thought to be ineligible for SSI may be included in the program administratively.

U.S. Whaling Fleet Was The Largest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last American whalers were beached in 1972 after whaling was banned by the Department of Commerce. The three small ships with their bow-mounted harpoon guns were all that remained of what once had been the largest whaling fleet in the world.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Stolen 'Laundry' Bag

DEAR ABBY: When our son, John, came home from college for a weekend, he brought his soiled laundry in a new U.S. mail bag. He said a friend had loaned it to him, and I asked him to be sure and return it.

I told John that it was stolen property that I didn't want it in the house, and to please take it to the post office. After several days, the bag was still in the laundry room, so I gave it to our mail carrier.

John was upset. He said he had promised his friend he would return it and I had put him in a very embarrassing spot. My husband agreed with our son and said my first loyalty should have been to John.

We brought this up at dinner, and had varied and interesting responses. What would you have done?

MRS. F. DEAR MRS. F.: I would not have given it to the mailman. I would have first provided John with a proper laundry bag and then advised him to return the U.S. mail bag to his "friend"—and on the double.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are retired. Our assets amount to approximately one-half million dollars—not too big an estate for some folks these days, but it's a lot for us.

I think it is time I enjoyed some of the pleasures that money can buy. For instance, I can't remember the last time we went on a vacation trip.

We have always bought our clothing at rummage sales, our furniture at garage sales and Goodwill. We have never had a new car. Always bought them second hand. We live in a tiny house, and have skimped and saved on everything. We weren't ashamed, either. We used to brag about how long we'd had something and how we paid for it.

What's my problem? After having lived this way all my life I told my husband I wanted him to loosen up with the money, but the older he gets the harder he pinches his pennies. After 70, wouldn't you think he'd loosen his grip?

Please, no city or state. Just your answer.

TIRED OF SKIMPING

DEAR ABBY: It will be hard to teach your old horse new tricks, but it's worth a try. Start out by investigating vacation tours. See America first! Select the most expensive, but settle for the least costly. Insist on a clothing allowance—but ask for twice as much as you really want. "Hang in there. Nothing is impossible."

DEAR ABBY: When a friend dies and I pay the family a condolence call, I never know what to say. Should I talk about the one who died? Or should I try to make the family feel better and cheer them up with jokes and humorous stories?

I feel so awkward just sitting there in silence, yet forcing conversation at a time like that seems so artificial. Please tell me how to act.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: How one handles his grief is a personal matter. Let the one who has suffered the loss take the lead. If he feels like talking, encourage him to talk. If he prefers to sit in silence, don't intrude on his silence. Friends should call, bring food, offer to run errands, and do what needs to be done. A hug, a squeeze of the hand, a look which says, "I'm here, if you need me," conveys more than a thousand words.

Spanish Classes Are More Fun This Year

By RUSTY WILLIAMS

The Teays Valley Spanish Classes are making learning fun. They sing, do skits, and have contests.

Mrs. Mary Bendycki, the Spanish teacher, said, "Songs and skits are fun. Not only do they relieve the routine, but the students learn from them."

The students seem to agree with Mrs. Bendycki's theory. Sherry Ward commented, "The people in the class are eager to learn."

Cindy Lowe said, "It gets the kids more interested in it."

The classes do a variety of things such as having contests, in which the classes divide up into teams and race each other in interpreting Spanish to

English and vice-versa; skits, where the students speak in Spanish and learning songs.

At Christmas time all the classes walked through the halls at TV singing Spanish Christmas Carols. Recently, they learned the popular song "Eres tu" as done by Mocedades from Spain.

The third year classes made a pinata at Christmas. A pinata is a paper mache animal full of candy which is hung from the ceiling and hit with a stick until it breaks open. The classes also took a trip to a Mexican restaurant.

The students say they are learning more Spanish than they thought they would and there is more interest in the course for next year.

Great Optimism Shown In Baseball At TV

Optimistic is the way everyone feels about the baseball team this year at Teays Valley.

Play Crew Interviewed

SNOOPY—Dave Warner is shown above as he practices his part as Snoopy in the musical production "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown." The play will be presented at the Teays Valley High School April 19 and 20 at 8 p.m.

By STEVE GREGORY

On March 25 in the cafeteria at Teays Valley High, I had the privilege to interview Miss Debbie Mitchum, who is playing the part of Patty, and Miss Cindy Beattie, who is an understudy in the April 19 and 20 musical production of "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown."

Debbie said, "The play in general is very humorous and should be quite entertaining." She feels that in order to give a good performance, she has to work very hard and long.

Cindy said, "The cast works very hard together. This is half the battle for putting on a good performance." She went on to say, "That it is also very important the various crews all work together, along with the cast in order for everything to run smoothly. Everything looks pretty good so far."

new uniforms. They are solid gold with blue numbers trimmed in white. The shoes are white with gold stripes. Keith Pettibone, varsity pitcher, commonly known as The Ace, feels that if the team plays as well as they look they will win the state title this year.

Everything is looking up this year with strong improvements in batting, pitching, and fielding. Rusty Rathburn, centerfielder, says, "We have much stronger batting power than last season. Our pitching is greatly improved also; consequently, I feel that we should win the league and proceed to the state tournament."

William Lewis, varsity coach, says that he feels, "We don't get as much support as we should. A lot of people consider this to be a 'minor sport' and we would like to have more support at our games. Team morale is very good. We have five seniors on the team and they have all been around for a long time and so we are not lacking in experienced players."

"Last year's team won the Logan Elm tournament and proceeded to become the district runner-up. With most of the starters returning to the line-up and several new players coming into the line-up, everything points to a better season than last year."

The first scheduled game against Westfall was snowed out. In the March 28 game against Logan Elm, Keith Pettibone pitched a fantastic game allowing only three hits the entire game. The final score was 6 to 1, Teays Valley's favor, with the only run being scored on an error by the catcher.

By all indications, this year's baseball team has tremendous potential and should be able to go even farther in the tournaments than last year.

Lewis also said that Jill Blue and Tami Trego have been doing a fine job as statisticians which is a great help to the team.

Miss Fulton Is New Face In TV Halls

CINDY FULTON

By ROBERTA LALIK

If you've seen a new face roaming the halls lately, it's Cindy Fulton. Miss Fulton is the girl's new gym teacher. She graduated from Muskingum College near New Concord.

When asked why she started teaching physical education, she said, "I like all sports and have always been active in sports. Sports has something to offer for everyone whether they are a spectator or an athlete. It gives them a chance to work as a team."

Miss Fulton remarked, "This is the first time I have been involved with split session. There is a lot of space during the day. But after school you can't use the facilities because the junior high has them."

Her hobbies include coaching the Grandview Majorettes, twirling baton, dogs, and playing a few musical instruments.

Miss Fulton is going to be here the remainder of the school year and hopes she will get to know everyone in the short period of time left in the school year.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state auditor has distributed $159,386 to 67 counties to cover the costs of handling indigent defendants.

SEEBURG AND FRIENDS—The new juke box which stands in the high school cafeteria is shown with several students who have enjoyed its presence. The juke box made by the Seeburg Company was approved by the Teays Valley Board of Education and is played during the lunch period.

7 Schools Devastated At Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — More than half the schools in Xenia may have to be replaced because of damage from Wednesday's tornadoes, school superintendent Carl B. Adkins said. The school system enrolls 8,000 students in 12 schools.

Seven schools were "devastated" including the two-story Xenia High School, Adkins said.

"It would cost at least $5 million to replace the high school," he said. The entire top floor and gaps in the ground floor were blown away by the force of the tornado. A school bus lies on its side against one of the brick walls still standing.

Schools were closed Thursday and Friday immediately after the tornado. Regular spring vacation was scheduled next week.

"We've got all of next week to get the teachers and administrative staff together and wrestle with the problem of what to do about school," Adkins said.

Adkins said he was looking for vacant space at private schools and other buildings to hold classes.

Grange News

NEBRASKA GRANGE
Nebraska Grange was host to members of Scioto Grange at the regular meeting April 2.
The meeting was conducted by Worthy Master Ray Noecker at which time reports were heard from Eddie Crites, youth chairman, who announced the Pickaway County Youth Banquet at Granville and from Carl Bennett who commented on no fault insurance.
The Grange will serve the Walnut-Madison Alumni Banquet the first Saturday in May at the Walnut School.

A contribution was made to the Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children through Easter Seals and also to help with awards for the 4-H Program.

On May 14 Nebraska Grange will be guests of Washington Grange and present the program.

The sewing and baking contests were held at this meeting under the direction of the Women's Activities Committee, Mrs. Ralph Dunkel and Mrs. John Bell. First place winner of the party apron contest was Mrs. Carl Bennett and Mrs. Florence Wharton, second. Thelma Hines placed first in the Carrot cake contest and Mrs. John Bell second.

Mrs. Stewart Beers, lecturer of Scioto Grange, used "Tribute to Farmers" as her program theme.

Members responded to Mrs. Beers' call for those present who are farmers and those who are still living on farms and how many own their farms. A contest, "Let's Search for" was enjoyed. Reading "This is a Farmer" was given by Marjorie Green and the group sang "Dear Old Farm."

Mrs. Josephine Dountz presented a reading, "Oh, Those Nasty Pocket Knives". Special instrumental music was furnished by Mrs. Ernest Bidwell and Kenneth Beach. Mr. Beach also sang a vocal number, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," accompanied by Mrs. Bidwell.

Refreshments were enjoyed in the dining room by 28 members and guests. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scothorn and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Noecker served the refreshments.

The next meeting will be held May 7 with Mrs. Kenneth Riegel, lecturer, in charge of the program. Serving on the May hospitality committee will be Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Waites, Mr. and Mrs. John Brinker and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beers.

Eckhart Rips Cost Boosts By Utilities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Henry Eckhart, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said Friday Ohio utilities "don't hesitate to pass their increased costs on to their residential customers."

"The customers are at the end of the pass-it-on receiving line," said Eckhart, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission. "They have to dig down into their inflation-riddled budget and pay."

Eckhart said in a statement the Ohio Power Co. plans to pay higher prices for low-sulfur coal from western states than it now pays for Appalachia coal from Ohio and West Virginia and tack the added costs on customers' monthly bills.

"This action has a doublebarreled, adverse effect on Ohio," he said. "It will feed inflation by raising electric rates for Ohio customers and at the same time reduce the market for Ohio coal."

Eckhart said Columbia Gas of Ohio, which serves 62 counties, is proposing to increase all its gas rates because of the increased costs of its new synthetic gas being produced at its Green Springs plant.

Since the additional supply of synthetic gas will only benefit industrial users, he said, it would be more equitable to bill those customers for the added costs and leave residential rates unchanged.

County Receives Gasoline Funds

Pickaway County municipalities will receive $12,327 in gasoline taxes distributed in March, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The amount of $4,126 will be divided among the villages of Ashville, Commercial Point, Darbyville, Harrisburg, New Holland, Orient, South Bloomfield, Tarlton and Williamsport.

The remaining sum will be distributed to Circleville treasurer.

The gasoline excise tax receipts can be used only for street and roadway purposes.

Some Nixon Gift Papers 'Retrieved'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's vice-presidential correspondence with such figures as John F. Kennedy and Nikita S. Khrushchev was retrieved for him months after he claims he gave his papers to the government, congressional investigators say.
Nixon's appraiser told him those letters were the most historically and commercially valuable.

The President and his lawyers have insisted that the gift was made before July 25, 1969, the cut-off date for tax deductions on such contributions. But materials made public by the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation show that the appraiser and a government archivist went through the gift papers in late 1969 and 1970 and withdrew the files containing correspondence with the best-known figures.

The files, which still belong to Nixon, are stored in a high-security room at the National Archives.

In a meeting with the congressional committee staff that probed Nixon's income taxes, archivist Mary Walton Livingston said she worked on the file in November and December 1969 with appraiser Ralph G. Newman of Chicago.

Newman said "some letters should be retained by the President and not deleted," Mrs. Livingston recalled. "In particular, he wanted to retain for the President communications from President Kennedy, President Johnson, President Hoover, former Vice President (Hubert H.) Humphrey, J. Edgar Hoover, Chief Justice (Earl) Warren and the Honorable Sam Rayburn."

Mrs. Livingston said she suggested "that correspondence with Martin Luther King also be retained by the President because there were some very interesting letters and memoranda in the file on King."

Newman agreed, she said, but it is not clear from archives records whether the King file was held out. The records show that separate files on the former presidents and other dignitaries, along with more than 100 "country files," were removed from the general correspondence that was given to the government.

The country files include correspondence with Queen Elizabeth II, Sir Winston Churchill, Premier Khrushchev and dozens of other foreign leaders.

On Nov. 7, 1969, before he knew exactly what papers were being given to the archives, Newman wrote the President telling him his pre-presidential papers and memorabilia were worth more than $2 million and recommending that certain files be removed from the general files and stored in a special vault, Newman wrote.

There is no indication whether Nixon answered Newman's letter, but the valuable documents subsequently were removed, and the remainder made up the major portion of the gift for which Nixon claimed a $576,000 tax deduction. That deduction has been disallowed by the Internal Revenue Service.

India Enthusiastic About Oil Outlook

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India is caressing the hope that signs of offshore oil will run into a black bonanza to help beat the energy crisis.

The press carries almost daily reports of new optimistic developments in the extensive Indian search for oil inland and under territorial waters.

Attention centers on the Bombay High, a geological lump under the Arabian Sea about 115 miles northwest of Bombay.

The petroleum and chemicals minister, D.K. Borooah, told parliament recently that the Indian Oil and Natural Gas Commission will press explorations there and begin pumping oil "within three years."

Foreign experts are less optimistic, underlining that the Bombay High drilling team has hit only one on the three positive holes necessary for conclusive indication that oil exists in commercial quantities.

But Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government is unable to wait. Hard-pressed by increased oil prices and faced with unrest over food prices and scarce grains, it is seizing the ray of hope and trying to turn it into a beacon.

A petroleum ministry study predicts that annual Indian oil production will rise from an insignificant 50,000 barrels in 1973 to nearly 84 million barrels in five years.

That would go a long way toward softening the blow of foreign oil imports — 112 million barrels in 1973 — that are expected to cost almost half India's anticipated export earnings of $3 billion this year.

It also would go a long way toward disarming critics of Mrs. Gandhi's government who berated her for dealing with Americans during the diplomatic nastiness caused by Washington's "tilt" toward Pakistan in the 1971 war.

The Bombay High drilling is supervised by about 15 veteran offshore oil prospectors from the Houston-based Offshore International, on contract to the Indian government. They are training a 60-man Indian crew.

The offshore drilling rig was built by a Japanese company to save Mrs. Gandhi the embarrassment of buying directly from Offshore International. But the Texas company provided the knowhow and major components.

Leftist criticism was particularly acid because a Soviet Seismic survey team first pointed out the promise of Bombay High nearly a decade ago. The exploration never got seriously under way until the American drillers were brought in.

Westfall Baseball Has Young Look

Six returning lettermen form the nucleus of the 32-man Westfall High School baseball team which includes five seniors, six juniors, 14 sophomores and seven freshmen.

With two wins under their belts, in their only outings of the season, it appears that it might be another good year for coach Alan Gabriel and his Mustangs. Bill Montgomery is handling the assistant coach duties.

Returning lettermen are: Tim Brigner, senior; Artie Dick, senior; Craig Moore, junior; Randy Puckett, senior; Dave Shannon, senior; and Gary Thompson, junior.

Coach Gabriel opened the season with a 13-man varsity squad but plans to move five more players up from the reserve team as the season rolls along.

In addition to the six lettermen the

Merrin Set To Coach South Stars

Mt. Vernon High School coach Keith Merrin has been named to replace Paul Walker of Middletown as Class AAA coach of the south team in the annual North-South Cage Classic to be played at Marion Coliseum June 15.

Merrin, who guided his Yellowjackets to a co-championship in the Ohio Capital Conference, sectional, district and regional titles and a berth in the state tournament, began his varsity coaching career at Logan Elm High School.

Walker, the original choice of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn. as Class AAA coach, will be out of the state when the classic is held. The announcement of Merrin as Walker's replacement was made by Dick Brown, Marion, former Harding High School basketball coach who serves as co-manager of the All-Star game and coaches clinic.

Cards Defeat Pirates, 6-5

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are living proof that if at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

After Lou Brock "singled" into a weird double play with the bases loaded in the 10th inning while trying to get the winning run home, Ted Sizemore singled for real to cap a two-run rally that lifted the Cards to a 6-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night in the National League opener for both clubs.

In the only other NL action, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Houston Astros 5-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the San Diego Padres 8-0.

All 12 teams are on today's schedule—New York at Philadelphia, Atlanta and Hank Aaron at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Chicago at Montreal, Houston at San Francisco and San Diego at Los Angeles.

For 9½ innings, the Pittsburgh-St. Louis affair was relatively stable. Reggie Smith doubled home two runs for the Cards and Bake McBride drove in two more with a single and sacrifice fly. For the Pirates, Richie Hebner knocked across three with a pair of homers off Bob Gibson and then doubled in the 10th and scored on Willie Stargell's single for a 5-4 lead.

But McBride opened the last of the 10th with a bunt hit against Pittsburgh relief ace Dave Giusti and raced to third on Ken Reitz's single. He scored the tying run when pinch hitter Tim McCarver rapped a single just out of the reach of second baseman Rennie Stennett.

Jose Cruz, another pinch hitter, outlegged a bunt down the third base line, loading the bases and setting the stage for the unusual double play.

Ramon Hernandez replaced Giusti and Brock lined a shot to right field where Gene Cline, playing shallow, trapped the ball as the three runners all held up. Cline quickly fired to the plate, forcing pinch runner Jim Dwyer, and catcher Mike Ryan fired to third baseman Hebner, forcing McCarver for the second out. But Cruz, a late arrival at second, then scored on Sizemore's single to left.

"I've never seen a play like that before," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh. "I thought we should have had a triple play."

Giants 5, Astros 1

Garry Maddox cracked a three-run homer and Tom Bradley, who drew the opening-day assignment when Ron Bryant was injured in a swimming pool mishap during spring training, scattered seven hits before Randy Moffitt came in to get the last two outs. Rookie Steve Ontiveros and Dave Kingman slapped run-scoring singles in the fourth inning and Maddox smashed his homer off Dave Roberts in the fifth.

Dodgers 8, Padres 0

Jim Wynn slammed a two-run homer, singled twice and drove in three runs to back the six-hit pitching of Don Sutton. Wynn, playing his first game for Los Angeles after being traded by Houston, singled home a run with an infield hit to touch off a three-run third inning and then homered over the left-center field wall in the sixth with Bill Buckner aboard.

Ryan, Angels Smash Chisox

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Four streakers raced around the ballpark, numerous fights erupted in the stands, they played baseball in 37-degree weather and Nolan Ryan struck out a total of four batters.

When was the last time you saw Ryan do that?

The other stuff has become pretty commonplace these days, but the California Angel ace couldn't explain his low strikeout total after beating the Chicago White Sox 8-2 Friday.

"I was all over the place with my fastball," said the hardthrowing Ryan after working eight arduous innings. The major league's best strikeout pitcher didn't have his strikeout pitch until the fifth inning. He issued an extravagant total of 10 walks and threw a total of 138 pitches.

"I was pitching out of trouble the whole game," said the man who fanned a record 383 batters in 1973. "A couple of key early hits and I'm out of the game."

California Manager Bobby Winkles watched Ryan struggling, but didn't lift a finger.

"I wasn't about to yank Ryan in his early trouble," said Winkles. "You can't hardly take him out, because suddenly you look around and he's got it."

Three other American League

games were played Friday, the second day of the season. The Boston Red Sox stopped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-8, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Detroit Tigers 3-2 and the Minnesota Twins shaded the Kansas City Royals 6-4 in 11 innings.

While the White Sox and Angels christened the 1974 baseball season at White Sox Park, they had competition from the fans — some of whom would rather fight than watch Ryan pitch.

About a dozen individual battles exploded in the Opening Day crowd of 30,041. And while they were swinging in the stands, others were caught naked on the field.

Lee Stanton doubled, homered and drove in three runs to lead the Angel assault on Chicago ace Wilbur Wood.

Red Sox 9, Brewers 8

Darrell Johnson made a successful debut as Boston manager, Carl Yastrzemski hit a two-run homer and Doug Griffin laced a three-run double. Yastrzemski slugged his homer in the seventh off rookie Kevin Kobel following a bad-hop single by Cecil Cooper.

Orioles 3, Tigers 2

Don Baylor, after failing on a squeeze attempt, hit a checked-swing single in the eighth inning to drive in the winning run as Baltimore spoiled Ralph Houk's debut as manager of the Tigers.

Twins 6, Royals 4

Rod Carew singled home the tie-breaking run in the 11th inning and rookie Sergio Ferrer scored from second base on Larry Hise's long fly ball, lifting Minnesota over Kansas City. With one out in the 11th, Jerry Terrell beat out a roller to the left of reliever Lindy McDaniel and Ferrer walked. Terrell scored on Carew's third single of the game and Ferrer raced home when Hise hit a deep fly to center fielder Amos Otis.

Say Aaron Won't Play In Cincinnati

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves manager Eddie Mathews says Hank Aaron won't play in either of the Braves' two remaining games in Cincinnati, the Atlanta Constitution reported today.

The newspaper quoted Mathews in Saturday's editions as saying in an interview Friday night that Aaron had tied Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs out of town.

"He gave the fans here (Cincinnati) a thrill, and now I want him to give one to the fans in Atlanta," Mathews said.

Mathews said he would refuse any order for Aaron to play any more in Cincinnati, even if it came from Braves chairman Bill Bartholomew or General Manager Eddie Robinson.

"I guess you can say this could mean my job. But it's in my lap," he said.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn had ordered Mathews to play Aaron at least two of Atlanta's three games in Cincinnati. Kuhn said Aaron would have to follow the "pattern he set last year" during the series in Cincinnati.

Rochester Wins Playoff Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Larry McKillop's only shot on goal Friday night gave Rochester its second overtime victory in a row and put the Americans at a 2-0 advantage over the New Haven Nighthawks in the American Hockey League's Northern Division semi-final playoffs.

McKillop's goal at 4:27 of the sudden-death overtime broke a 1-1 deadlock in a tight, high shooting match.

In other playoff action, the Cincinnati Swords evened their best-of-seven Southern Division playoffs at 1-1 with a 6-2 decision over the Hershey Bears; the Rhode Island Reds took a 1-0 lead in the Northern Division semi-finals, downing the Nova Scotia Voyageurs 6-4, and the Baltimore Clippers went one up in the opener of their Southern Division playoffs with Richmond, defeating the Robins 5-2.

Mahaffey, Jamieson In Golf Lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino finally took a bogey, John Mahaffey and Jim Jamieson took a share of the lead, and Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper took off for Augusta, Ga. and Masters, victims of the cut.

"It had to happen sometime," Trevino said when his string of 90 holes without a bogey ended in Friday's second round of the $220,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm just lucky I didn't shoot 73 or 74."

With Trevino, a run-away winner at New Orleans last week, faltering just a bit, Mahaffey and Jamieson moved into a tie for the lead at nine-under-par 135. Mahaffey had a second round 66, Jamieson 67.

But Palmer and Casper, who have more than 110 tour titles between them, failed to qualify for the last two rounds. It took a score of 141, one under par, to make it. Casper was at 144 and Palmer 146.

Mahaffey and Jamieson, neither a winner this year, but each a runnerup, shared a onestroke advantage over Ray Floyd. Floyd, in a deep slump since winning the PGA national championship in 1969, had a 68 and was alone at 134.

Trevino, who missed the green and bogeyed the first hole—the first bogey he'd made since March 24, had a 69 and was tied with an international group of seven others at 135, just two shots back.

Babe Ruth made 10 hits in 16 trips to the plate in the 1928 World Series. His .625 percentage for that four-game series is a record.

Credit Given For Canoeing

SPOKANE (AP) — Whitworth College here is sponsoring a 1,100-mile canoe trip from the ice-locked reaches of Ayler Lake in the Northwest Territories through churning rapids into the Arctic Ocean where only a handful of people have ever traveled.

The eight-week trip is open to males and females; regular enrollment at Whitworth is not a requisite. The trip will include fishing for 30-pound lake trout and observing herds of animals (musk ox, caribou, wolves, grizzlies, falcon) at close range. There are also hardships: hordes of insects, howling winds and carrying heavy packs.

The cost per person of $925 includes college credit, food, equipment, air transportation to the jump-off point and from the final destination and two weeks of training beginning the second week in June. Purpose of the trip is to help participants master the skills necessary for wilderness travel and understanding the Arctic.

FBI Grabs Hearst Kidnap Documents At Newspaper

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — FBI agents have seized a recent terrorist communique and other documents in the Patricia Hearst kidnapping from the attorney for a San Francisco underground newspaper.

The raid came Friday as trustees for $4 million offered by the Hearst Corp. said the money is still available to buy free food for the poor if Miss Hearst is released unharmed.

FBI agents served the warrant on Vincent Hallinan, attorney for the biweekly San Francisco Phoenix, for the April 2 communique from the Symbionese Liberation Army, whose members dragged Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

"They just came in with a search warrant and snatched it," said John Bryan, editor of the newspaper. Bryan said he had refused to turn the material over to authorities and gave it to Hallinan for safekeeping.

Bryan said the FBI took SLA communique No. 7, a note to Bryan purportedly from the SLA and a carbon copy of the SLA communique received Wednesday by radio station KSAN.

Communique No. 7, accompanied by a dozen roses, a greeting card and half of her driver's license, said the time and place of Miss Hearst's release would be made known within 72 hours.

The driver's license had already been turned over to the FBI by her father, newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst.

But in the SLA message to KSAN, Miss Hearst announced she was turning her back on her parents and joining the SLA, raising doubts whether the $4 million offer still stood.

In the note Bryan said he received Thursday along with the copy of the transcript Wednesday communique, he said the kidnapers praised him for refusing to turn over the material to the FBI.

Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case, said the warrant was served, but he refused to discuss what was seized.

He said the evidence has been sent to Washington for examination.

An FBI spokesman said the evidence would be examined for fingerprints, typewriter identification, handwriting samples and postmarks.

Hallinan could not be reached for comment on the seizure of documents.

In another development Friday, Bryan admitted that an "interview" with the SLA which his newspaper had published last month was a phony. He said the long article was fabricated from previous SLA statements and other revolutionary writings.

Cincy Residents Determined To Care For Themselves

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's tornado victims seem determined to care for themselves rather than seek help.

The Red Cross reported about 30 people in their housing shelters in the area although some 2,200 homes in the Hamilton County area were destroyed or badly damaged.

Dean Clark, at the relocation center in Saylor Park, said "we are very concerned about the people who didn't seek any help at all."

George Fenstermacher, city building inspector noted that 375 of Saylor Park's 508 houses were destroyed or damaged but people moved back where they could Friday. Others stayed with relatives or found housing with or without public help.

He said at least 50 houses, which were labeled unfit for habitation, are being lived in. They are guarding their own homes against looters, officials said, despite the freeze warning Friday night.

"Our work has been light because the generosity has been overwhelming," said Red Cross volunteer Dick Bollman.

"The good old Cincinnati Dutch come through every time."

In suburban Green Township, Roy E. Cheesbrough, moved back.

He repaired the roof, windows and the fireplace provides heat. A portable unit from his boss provides electricity.

"We weren't wrecked that bad," he said. "There's no place like home."

Meanwhile Friday, James T. Lynn, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development toured stricken areas of Xenia and Cincinnati.

He said President Nixon had pointed his finger at him and said "Look, no delays." Lynn said a Federal Disaster Assistance Administration area office has been established at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton.

Israeli Jets Hit Syrians On Heights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli military command said a Syrian ground force attacked an Israeli position on Mt. Hermon today and was driven back by Israeli aircraft and artillery.

It was the first time Israeli airplanes had been called in since the Syrian front became the scene of daily fighting 26 days ago.

An announcement in Tel Aviv said the force struck about 11:45 a.m. and Israeli "aircraft were brought into action to stop the Syrian column. Artillery fire also was used."

The Syrians withdrew 30 minutes later, a communique said.

Israeli forces have been on a high alert for the past week or more along the embattled Golan Heights front which includes the 30-square mile wedge of land captured from Syria in the October war.

Israel prepared to celebrate Passover at sundown tonight, but its troops were kept on alert and a special siren that was to have signaled the start of the feast was silenced.

The country still remembered that the last Middle East war broke Oct. 6 on the dawn of another major holiday, Yom Kippur. That war cost Israel nearly 3,000 dead and missing, and continuing clashes on the Syrian front have kept most reservists on active duty.

Pompidou Rites Held

PARIS (AP) — Princes and presidents gathered under a broad French flag inside the Cathedral of Notre Dame today to pay solemn tribute to Georges Pompidou at a Requiem Mass.

At least 40 countries were represented by their heads of state. President Nixon, one of the last to enter the church, stood a short distance from Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

A 96-foot-long tricolor suspended from the vaults of the 13th century church marked off the pews reserved for the officials.

Ceremonial guards in dazzling brass helmets and white breeches stood at attention along the walls as Francois Cardinal Marty, Archbishop of Paris, celebrated the mass.

Alain Poher, who as Senate president became interim president upon Pompidou's death, headed the official mourners. Pompidou's widow, Claude, did not attend the service.

HAIL DAMAGE—Elvis Moreland surveys damage done to his auto's convertible top by billiard ball-size hail that pelted west central Illinois town of Fidelity during heavy thunderstorm. The hail, which litters ground behind Moreland, fell for 15 minutes, denting cars and shattering windows, but causing no injuries.

Catalyst-Equipped Cars Give Better Mileage

DETROIT (AP) — After years of declining fuel economy, the auto is expected to stage a big comeback in the 1975 model year with gasoline mileage improvements very likely exceeding 7 per cent.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency said Friday that preliminary results on some 1975-model test vehicles showed efficiency improvements would be greater than anticipated.

Coupled with increased use of steel-belted, radial-ply tires, which the EPA says can cut fuel use an average 10 per cent, the improvement could be an important factor in dealing with the nation's petroleum problem.

EPA deputy administrator Eric Stork said the latest projection was based on the first tests of 1975 cars equipped with catalytic converters. The converters will be used on most of the new autos to meet tougher pollution standards.

The agency previously said it expected about a 7 per cent average improvement over-all and 11 to 13 per cent for its own models will probably turn out to have been too conservative," Stork said in a telephone interview from his Washington office.

With the catalysts bearing the burden of emissions control in the new cars, auto makers have said they are able to recalibrate the rest of the engine for better gasoline mileage.

Automakers have complained of a total fuel penalty of about 15 per cent over the past five years because of engine and body changes designed to meet federal pollution and safety standards.

Stork said GM will record the largest gain because its model line is the heaviest.

"The greatest savings are going to be on the biggest cars because they lost the most and have more to gain back," he said.

Stork said he could not release detailed test information at this time. Release of fuel economy figures is slated to coincide with the September model introduction.

Judge Cline Hears 11 Cases Last Week

Juvenile Court Judge Guy G. Cline heard cases this past week on five unruly and delinquent youths and took action regarding six neglected children. The court also terminated probation on cases involving seven youths.

School truancy charges had been filed against a 15-year-old Route 2, Williamsport boy, a 15-year-old Circleville boy, a 14-year-old girl and a 16-year-old boy from Route 2, Williamsport. Each of the youths had a sentence to the Ohio Youth Commission suspended and was placed on probation for three years.

Four Ashville children, ages 12, 14, 15 and 16, were found to be neglected by their father and were placed in the permanent care of their mother in Florida.

Released from probation were three Circleville boys, ages 16, 15, and 21, a Columbus boy, 20, a Groveport boy, 17, an Ashville boy, 18, and a Route 1, Williamsport boy, 16.

A suspended sentence to the Ohio Youth Commission and three years probation was the sentence of a Route 3, Mt. Sterling boy convicted of school truancy.

Two Route 1, Orient boys, ages seven and four, were ordered in to the emergency care of the Pickaway County Children's Services after they were found to be neglected.

Attorney James Hill was appointed by Judge Cline as guardian ad litem for two girls accused of being unruly. Hill will represent the girls on the charges of running away which were filed by their parents.

During the month of March the juvenile court filed 84 new cases and terminated 60 cases. Of the finished cases, 23 were delinquency, 14 unruly, two dependent-neglected, 16 traffic and five adult.

One girl was sentenced to the permanent care of the Ohio Youth Commission during the month. Six girls and 14 boys were placed on probation.

At the beginning of March, 68 cases were pending and 92 were pending at the end of the month.

Land Use Booklet Available

Help has arrived for anyone having the slightest interest in the land underfoot anywhere in the U. S. A., according to Don Archer, Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Whether a person's angle is to stop floods in the basement, fight fires in the forest, raise flowers at the picture-window, or manage the best farm in the county, a new mini-guide tells which button to push.

The timely aid is "Land Use Planning Assistance" just off the presses of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A slim pocket-pamphlet hardly bigger than a packet of seeds, the digest points out 80 different types of "lift for the landowner" that are as near as the nearest USDA office. Couched in cookbook English, the information avoids technical jargon and tells who-to, where-to, and how-to.

Broader community interests are also covered. The 52 postcard-width pages pinpoint such things as sources of conservation education, data from space satellites, land inventories and resource monitoring.

Releasing the aid to the public, USDA Secretary Earl L. Butz commented:

"This publication summarizes briefly: (1) the purposes of each of the principal Department programs which influence land use, and (2) the land use application of that particular program. The Department's nationwide delivery system for making this land use information available includes the several thousand county offices of its various agencies; 3,000 conservation districts; research centers of the State Land Grant Universities; and State Agriculture Departments."

Copies of the new pamphlet are available from local Soil Conservation Service and other USDA offices.
